The Kaiser's Paper
Did You Read About It?
And the Kaiser's Money?
And the Dear "Interests"?

By Arthur Brisbane

Speaking of pro-Germans, dearly beloved, have you observed the latest news?

"The Interests," always most frank and solicitous when it comes to keeping their people in control, are fond of the word "pro-German."

If you think the people should own their railroads, you are pro-German.

If you think that the heaviest taxes should fall on the heaviest pocketbooks, that is pro-German.

If you suggest to the little people that their wages should be high enough to enable them to meet the high cost of living, you are shamefully pro-German.

And if you question the right of "the Interests" to name Governors of States and other public officials, you are almost the Kaiser's brother-in-law.

BUT, when the United States Government begins digging into pro-German facts, what happens?

You find that the Kaiser actually owns one well-known New York newspaper. He has invested more than one million three hundred thousand dollars in its purchase.

Eminently respectable American figureheads are running it for Prussia.

And what kind of an American newspaper is it that William of Prussia owns and operates in the United States?

Lo, and behold, it is the New York Evening Mail, the accredited faithful representative and spokesman of those very same "Interests" that are so much excited about pro-Germanism.

The Evening Mail, once owned and edited by Shepard, the Vanderbilt son-in-law, passes into control of that sturdy, stately, progressive Bull Moose, Roosevelt-financing gentleman, George W. Perkins.

And when Mr. Stoddard, who now resumes control of the Mail, writes out his lengthy explanation of the Kaiser's purchase, you read:

"Dr. Rumely was represented in negotiations by the law firm of Cravath and Henderson."

Who, what, are Cravath and Henderson?

Why, they are corporation attorneys of "the Interests."

They are the leading mind without which the big financier would feel as helpless as a bull moose with his hind legs cut off.

And what about the money, the million three hundred thousand dollars and more, that the Kaiser invested in the newspaper that was to speak for him in one column and for "the Interests" in another?

That money traveled a round-about way, criss-crossing and zigzagging like a drunkard going home through the snow.

It was in one eminent trust company, then another, then another. Finally, it bought for the Kaiser, through Dr. Rumely, who was represented by the great corporation lawyers, Cravath and Henderson, that trusty Wall street, Vanderbilt-Perkins-stock-ticker-trust-serving New York newspaper, the Evening Mail.

The Kaiser's money that bought a newspaper traveled the same road as did the Kaiser's money that finally landed in the pockets of Bolo Pasha, and then landed Bolo against that post in the fort at Vincennes, where he lay dead, his neat white kid gloves stained with blood and his body pierced with the bullets of a French firing squad.

We believe that the great corporation lawyers, Cravath and Henderson, did not know that their client, Dr. Rumely, was buying the paper with Kaiser cash. Perhaps Rumely, himself, did not know it.

And we suppose that George W. Perkins little dreamed what angel had flown from Berlin to carry the newspaper that had been making his pocket weary.

It is unusual for one million three hundred thousand dollars to walk out of the great unknown and say, "Here we are; take us; never mind whence we came."

But the Mail and Express office is right near the corner of Wall street. Wall street is the land of easy come, easy go.

And the Wall street lawyers' job is to make sure that his client GETS the money without asking too many questions about it.

Let us always believe the best, even of "the Interests" and their attorneys, and the simplicity of mind which rings on the counter and drops in the till, asking no questions, $1,300,000 that come from nowhere in particular.

This is printed as a sample of the many queer activities of "the Interests." Those interests, their newspapers and their corporation lawyers are well advertised, highly moral, patriotic profiteers, always ready to preach patriotism to others.

One fine morning you wake up and learn that their favorite newspaper is actually the property of the Kaiser, and their favorite firm of corporation lawyers "conducted the negotiations" for the Kaiser's editor.

French Fell in Love With His Nurse, But---Alas!

Edward Tuck French and his adventures on the field of love and romance.

That is the absorbing narrative given to the Boston AMERICAN by "Ned" French himself.

The story of the elopement and marriage of Mr. French, son of Amos Tuck French, the Newport and New York millionaire, with Miss Lillian M. Harrington, the fair Manchester, N. H., telephone operator, has held public attention for the past few days. The separation of the bridal pair, their rapid reconciliation and second separation have only added interest to the episode.

"Ned" French, as he tells in his present narrative, has known girls of many grades, English princesses, American society damsels of the most exclusive set, vivacious chorus girls and working girls. He elected to wed a working girl, whom he dearly loves.

In his previous instalments he told of meeting a Brookline girl on his trip abroad, of his father's opposition to their romance, of a clandestine appointment with her at Cardiff, Wales and of their parting when the war began in August, 1914. He then plunged into London society life and met royalty and members of the peerage.

He returned to Newport with his father late in August, 1915. His career, as he puts it, became "animated." He was sent twice to a Western camp. But he found congenial friends at Cody, Wyoming, and was called back to Newport by wire.

Back at Newport I was somewhat embarrassed by the constant criticism of my friends and relatives. They had the idea that I was a very fast youth.

This was not true. The atmosphere of Newport is so cold I decided to go up to Woburn and visit my brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Geraghty, who had a country place in Woburn.

FORBID COAL FOR HEAT

Ban Just Issued by Boston Fuel Committee May Last Until December

The Federal Fuel Committee for Boston issued an order today forbidding the use of coal for general heating purposes in Boston until further notice.

The order added that this ruling might have to run until December 1.

Householders and others were warned to stock up with wood fuel "right away now."

The order, in full, was as follows:

The coal situation is so threatening that the Federal Fuel Committee, after a conference with James J. Storrow, New England Fuel Administrator, feels that it ought to issue, and hereby does issue, an order forbidding the use of coal for general heating purposes until otherwise ordered.

It is not unlikely that this order may have to be kept in force until December 1, next, and it behooves householders, therefore, and others who feel it necessary to have fire before that date, to take steps promptly to meet this possible situation.

The best way is to buy wood immediately, not to delay such purchase until next month or until next Fall, but to do it right now, so that, if coal exigencies require the continuance of this order and the forbidding of any use of coal for general heating purposes until a still later date, those who desire or require to have their furnaces started before that date may not suffer grievously in consequence.

The Federal Fuel Committee for Boston, of which David A. Ellis is chairman, is popularly known as the Boston Fuel Committee.

The committee members conferred with Mr. Storrow, then issued this order.

WILSON IS READY WITH PLAN FOR RUSSIA

Has Decided on Steps for Industrial Reconstruction; Big Military Problem

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, July 10.—President Wilson has completed his plans for the economic rehabilitation of Russia.

Today he has before him various suggestions of men to be named to the proposed commission which will go to Russia to extend financial and industrial aid in rebuilding that troubled nation. The general plans which are to be followed have been communicated to the Entente governments and are understood to have met with their approval.

The military plans, however, are furnishing a general stumbling block. Intervention which would in any way encroach on the sovereignty of the Russian people must be concentrated at certain points where it will be

FIRES AT VESSEL 3 TIMES

Torpedoes Pass Few Inches From Stern of Ship Carrying 85 Passengers

By International News Service.

An Atlantic Port, July 10.—A thrilling story of how an American passenger vessel, from South America, inbound with a load of nitrates for making government munitions, narrowly escaped being torpedoed off the American coast on Monday night, was told by passengers on the boat's arrival here today.

Three torpedoes were discharged at the vessel Monday night, just at dusk, from an unseen U-boat, as the ship was pursuing its course between Cape Hatteras and Cap Henry. One of the torpedoes passed only a few feet astern and the second missed vessel by only a bare five or six inches, according to the passengers.

The story of the narrow escape of the vessel was told by Benite Alvaras, an American representative of the Eastman Kodak Company in South America, who was standing at the stern of the boat with his wife, an American army officer and an officer of the ship, when the torpedoes were discharged. There were 85 passengers on board.

According to Mr. Alvaras' story, the boat was proceeding at about 16 knots an hour at the time when a peculiar sound, which he described as a "whiz" was heard. The party, directing their gaze toward where the sound came from, saw a white streak coming through the water at a high speed.

"My God, it's a torpedo!" the army officer is said to have exclaimed.

A moment later the torpedo passed the stern of the vessel only a few feet from where the spectators were standing.

TORPEDO GRAZES VESSEL.

Almost immediately another white streak was observed and the same peculiar sound noted. This torpedo came closer and seemed almost to graze the end of the vessel, Mr. Alvaras said.

The captain of the ship was immediately notified and a general alarm was sounded. The ship started to zig-zag on its course to thwart the marksmanship of the U-boat gunmen and life preservers were issued to all of the passengers and crew.

The ship continued its zig-zag course until morning. Then, apparently, Mr. Alvaras said, the captain received a warning from some quarter and the ship was put about and started to return in a southerly direction, doubling back over its course.

WILSON COMPLETES PLANS FOR RUSSIA'S ECONOMIC RESTORATION

EXCHANGES ON MILITARY STEPS BEING CONTINUED BY ENTENTE POWERS

available for use to protect not only the interests of the United States and the Entente but of the Russians themselves.

MUST ESTABLISH POLICE.

Frankly speaking, there must be maintained somewhere on Russian soil a force sufficiently strong to prevent the American or other economic commission being overwhelmed and to prevent seizure of supplies that must be furnished Russia in lavish quantities.

Exchanges on the military plans are continuing, it is understood. Certain questions are believed to have been submitted to the Supreme War Council at Versailles dealing with this subject. In addition the navy has worked out a complete plan, which also is before the President.

So far as the makeup of the proposed economic commission is concerned, officials said today that the President had invited suggestions of the personnel from his Cabinet officials and from other men who have been in close touch with Russian developments. Yesterday he discussed Russia and Germany's attitude toward it with former Ambassador James W. Gerard. Today he listened to the story of Mme. Botchkarova, the former commander of the women's battalion of death.

TO ANNOUNCE POLICY SOON.

It has been emphasized everywhere that the President is supremely confident that the Russian people themselves will work out their own salvation if afforded the proper opportunity and he does not intend that any false steps which would endanger such a result shall be permitted.

It is because of this fact that the President is working so carefully. And again today it was made plain that as soon as it can be done an announcement of the future policy decided on will be forthcoming.

Bolsheviki Threaten to Join the Germans in War Against Allies

Paris, July 10.—The Bolshevist government at Moscow, according to reliable dispatches, is threatening to conclude an alliance with Germany and mobilize Russia's man power against the entente.

As the result of the assassination of the German ambassador to Russia, Count von Mirbach, Germany, it is reported, will demand passage for her troops by way of Petrograd to the Murman coast, the inhabitants of which the Bolsheviki are denouncing as friendly to the allies.

Germany, it is said, will further demand control of Petrograd and Moscow.

The Bolsheviki claim to have gained full supremacy over the Social Revolutionary movement which was unloosed in Moscow by the Mirbach murder. The revolutionaries are, however, still entrenched in the municipal theatre.

SHIP CONTRACTS FOR BOSTON EXPECTED

The efforts of Mayor Peters and a number of leading business men of the city, in interesting the United States Shipping Board in shipyards in this section, may bear results.

After several weeks of correspondence between the Mayor and officials of the Shipping Board, the Mayor has received assurance from Howard Coonley, vice-president of the United States Shipping Board, Emergency Fleet Corporation, that one of the men connected with the wood ship division will be ordered here at once to make a personal investigation of yards named by the City Planning Board and Mayor Peters as capable of handling big contracts.

In a letter to the Mayor, Mr. Coonley said:

"As stated in my previous letter I am anxious to see that everything possible is done to relieve the situation in New England and to give its citizens an opportunity to have its full share of the government's work."

Mayor Peters, upon receipt of the query from Mr. Coonley, immediately started to furnish the required information. He believes Boston may now see some shipbuilding, that coal barges and tugs may be built here and the coal situation of last Winter be overcome.

Today's War Summary

By FRANK CHARLTON,
International News Service Cable Editor.

Offensive operations by the Italians and the French in southern Albania (the extreme western tip of the Balkan front) are taking on added importance as new developments establish the extent of the campaign.

British naval forces are co-operating with the allied troops on the land, and the fact that the Italians are using bodies of cavalry indicate that they expect to make great progress before the attacks cease.

The probable objective of the allies is to break the hold of the Austro-Hungarian troops upon the Adriatic coast, so as to give room for wide flanking operations eastward.

The Austro-Hungarian battle line in Albania rests upon the coast between the Voyusa River and the Zemeni River, in the district of Fieri, which is now in the hands of the Franco-Italian troops.

There were only minor infantry actions and bombardments in the battle zones in France during the past twenty-four hours.

The British improved their position in the Merris sector of the Flanders front, and the French carried out some successful raids.

German artillery continues to concentrate its fire in the Villers-Bretenneux sector of the Picardy front.

NATION TURNING OUT THREE SHIPS DAILY

223 Craft Completed Since Drive Began, 578 More to Be Built by Jan. 1

Washington, July 10.—The United States is entering upon an era of the manufacture of ships. Other nations have built ships and have become great shipbuilding and shipping nations, but the United States is the first to enter upon the manufacture of ships—turning them out in quantities like any other article of trade or commerce.

Chairman Edward N. Hurley made this distinction in discussing the latest statistics of ship production compiled by the Shipping Board for the week ending July 4.

He said that with the enormous facilities, the unlimited resources and the army of labor that is being trained in the production of ships, the United States will manufacture ships to meet the commercial needs of the world.

Fourteen requisitioned steel vessels with a deadweight tonnage of 73,500, five contract steel steamships of 34,-271 deadweight tons and four wood ships aggregating 14,400 deadweight tons, were completed and accepted in the week ending July 4. This shows a total of 23 ships actually delivered during that week, with a combined total of 122,771 deadweight, an average of 3.8 ships a day for each working day of the week and an average of 20,161 deadweight tons per day.

It was stated at the Shipping Board that if the shipyards can maintain this pace throughout the 151 working days that remain of this year, counting from July 5, the output during the 151 working days will be 578.8 ships, with an aggregate tonnage of 3,059,736.

The number of vessels already completed and delivered is 223, with an aggregate of 1,415,922 tons. Of this number, 218 vessels of 1,384,628 tonnage are in actual service.

It has been demonstrated that under improved conditions of construction each way in the yards building wood ships will turn out three ships a year, instead of two, as first believed.

GIRLS ARE HANDICAPPED, SAYS WOMAN DOCTOR

New York, July 10.—"The reason there is a greater girl problem than boy problem created by the war," said Dr. Kate W. Harrett of Alexandria, Va., "is because the boys have an avenue of expression that is in harmony with the best interests of society, while the girls must search for some open door or translate into patriotic service the homely duties of life that are neither new, picturesque nor interesting."

MAY SACRIFICE LIVES OF 25,000,000 CATS

Chicago, July 10.—A grand total of 25,000,000 lives will be sacrificed if action to be initiated by the Illinois Audubon Society is carried to a successful conclusion. It is estimated that this will save to America $100,000,000 annually in fouls. The lives are those of 25,000,000 stray cats. These cats, it is claimed, destroy

WARNS GERMANY OF 'ETERNAL MALADY'

London, July 10 (by British Wireless Service).—Max Harden, in the Zukunft, again warns his countrymen of the abyss into which they are being hurled by the militarist party and their imperial staff.

Germany, he says, will be ruined if she does not recover in time from the "eternal malady" from which she is suffering—that is, the desire for world domination.

That domination, he says, is expressed in the program of the German Economic League; that is to say, if Germany, in alliance with its military and economically weaker friends on the European continent, became the only great power over all the chief ports of the Baltic and Black Seas, over the Hoshhorns and the Dardanelles, over Hamburg, Bremen and Antwerp, from the Murman coast to Gallipoli, from the Caucasus into French Lorrain and Flanders.

Harden scoffs at the Kaiser's theory that the people of the world are under the yoke of the Anglo-Saxon race for whom they are working as slaves.

"Were the Ballins, Krupps, Thyssens and other masters of German industry under the Anglo-Saxon yoke? I do not believe," says Harden, "that in the British emporium, whose wares have been pushed out of the markets by German undercutting and by the German practice of dumping, there are more people than anywhere else in the world who worship money or fewer hearts beating for freedom, right, honor and morality than anywhere else on earth.

Rear Admiral Wood Thanks the Boston American for Success of Navy Day

REAR-ADMIRAL WOOD

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

I want to express to you, first, my thanks for suggesting Navy Day and, secondly, my appreciation of the co-operation which you gave in making this day a success. Mr. Frye and, later, Mr. Meade gave unstintedly their efforts to make this day a gala event for the service and for the spectators. The prizes which you so kindly provided have rewarded the successful contestants in a way which pleases them very much. I feel very deeply, and am sure that everyone in the First Naval District feels, that the results of the day, which you projected, were most gratifying.

Very truly yours,

SPENCER S. WOOD, Rear Admiral, U. S. N.,
Commandant First Naval District.

HEAVY TAXES ON LUXURIES HIT GEMS, AUTOS AND EVEN SERVANTS

By International News Service.

Washington, July 10.—In writing the new revenue bill the House Ways and Means Committee will so far as possible double the taxes levied in the last revenue bill.

The last revenue bill returned something over $4,000,000,000; the new measure must produce $8,000,000,000. Some of the taxes it will be impossible to double.

Luxury taxes will be levied to make up the amounts lost on commodities whose present taxes cannot well be increased. The luxury list sent by the Treasury Department to the committee probably will be disregarded, members said today. Some of the suggestions it contained were already in the minds of some committee men, however, and they will be followed.

DOUBLE TAX ON TOBACCO.

The committee had reached few definite conclusions in specific problems today. It had decided:

That taxes on tobacco must at least be doubled.

That no taxes shall be levied on oil or sugar.

That taxes ranging from 10 to 20 per cent. on the purchase price of automobiles must be set.

Clothing for both men and women costing more than $40 probably will be taxed on the same scale. Coats at more than $50 will be taxed on the same scale. Taxes on jewelry probably will range up to 50 per cent., with perhaps a 500 per cent. tax on the platinum solids.

The committee has not yet considered wheat, cotton or lumber as sidered sources of revenue. These possible sources of revenue. These will come in for consideration later.

HITS ALL LUXURIES.

The Treasury Department sent to the committee a list of "luxuries" upon which it is recommended that heavy taxes be levied. Included are automobiles, clothing, household servants, jewelry, hotel bills, gasoline, motion pictures, musical instruments, perfumery, canes and furs.

The taxes upon most of the articles named in the list would be collected on retail sales. The tax on gasoline would be paid by the wholesale dealer. It is fixed at 10 cents a gallon, while the automobile tax is graduated from $15 to $50, according to horsepower rating.

"Waste and extravagance are akin to treason," says the Treasury Department, in proposing this radical method of raising revenue for carrying on the war. "The retail sale tax distinctly labels the taxed article as a luxury and serves notice that the government's ban is honest."

RECOMMENDATIONS ASTOUND.

Members of the committee were astounded at some of the department's recommendations. It was stated frankly by several of the committee men that many of suggestions as to taxable articles would not be considered seriously.

Following is the complete list submitted by the department:

To be collected on retail sales:

Fifty per cent. on the retail price of jewelry, including watches and clocks, except those sold to army officers.

Twenty per cent. on automobile trailers and truck bodies, motorcycles, bicycles, automobiles, tires for all, and musical instruments.

A tax on all men's suits selling for more than $30; hats over $4; shirts over $2; pajamas over $2; hosiery over 25 cents; shoes over $5; gloves over $2; underwear over $3, and all neckwear and canes.

On women's suits, over $40; coats, over $30; ready made dresses, over $25; skirts, over $15; hats, over $10; shoes, over $6; lingerie, over $5; corsets over $5; dress goods (silk), over $1.50 a yard; cotton, over 50c. a square yard, and wool, over $2 a square yard. All furs, boas and fans.

CHILDREN'S CLOTHES TAXED.

On children's clothing, suits, over $15; cotton dresses, over $3; linen dresses, over $5; silk and wool dresses, over $8; hats, over $5; shoes, over $4, and gloves, over $2.

On house furnishings, all ornamental lamps and fixtures; all table linen, cutlery and silverware; china and cut glass; all furniture in sets for which $5 or more is paid for each piece; all curtains over $2 per yard, and on tapestries, rugs and carpets over $5 per square yard.

On all purses, pocketbooks, handbags, brushes, combs and toilet articles, and all mirrors costing over $2.

Ten per cent. on the collections from the sales of vending machines.

Ten per cent. on all hotel bills amounting to more than $2.50 per person per day; also the present tax on cabaret bills to be made to apply to the entire restaurant or cafe bill, the present tax being 10 per cent.

The following taxes to be collected from the manufacturer or producer:

Ten cents a gallon on all gasoline to be paid by the wholesale dealer.

Ten per cent. tax on wire leases.

TAXES ON SOFT DRINKS.

The following taxes on soft drinks are suggested:

Those now paying 5 cents a gallon, to pay 20 cents; those paying 8 cents to pay 30 cents; those paying 16 cents to pay 40 cents, and those paying 20 cents to pay 80 cents. Mineral waters now taxed 1 cent a gallon, would pay 16 cents—and chewing gum now taxed 2 per cent. of selling price, to pay 5 per cent on each five-cent package.

Motion picture shows and films: Abolish the foot tax of quarter and half cent a foot, double the tax rate on admissions and collect 5 per cent. on the rentals received by the producer.

Double the present tax on alcoholic beverages, viz: distilled spirits, now $2.20 per gallon, increase to $6.40; fermented liquors increase from $1 per gallon to $6, wine from 8 cents per gallon to 16 cents.

Automobiles, a license tax on passenger automobiles graduated according to horsepower as follows: 23 horsepower or less, $15; 24 to 30 horsepower $25; 31 to 40 horsepower $40; over 40 horsepower $50.

Double the tax on club membership dues; household servants: male, 25 per cent. of the wages of one servant to 100 per cent. of the combined wages of four or more female servants, each family to have exemption from tax for one servant, 25; additional female servants from 10 per cent. to 100 per cent. on all over four.

The statement from the Treasury Department accompanying the list pointed out that there are two sources of revenue by taxation, namely, a tax on retail sales and a tax on manufacturers and producers. The object of imposing taxes upon such articles as are contained in the list, it is stated, "is not only to raise revenue but to discourage wasteful consumption and unnecessary production."

The committee spent the entire session in going over the list, but reached no conclusion as to any of the items.

Search Coffin for Evidence of Hun Propaganda

New York, July 10.—Funeral services over the body of Mrs. Pauline Hamilton, forty-eight, an artist, were held up several hours at the Campbell Funeral Church by Department of Justice agents. Her friends were questioned and the casket, which had been sealed, was opened, in the effort to establish the truth or falsity of a report connecting the dead woman with German propaganda.

Nothing was found corroborating the allegation or other reports that she had been an associate of Mme. Storch, the alleged German spy who died while awaiting deportation. Friends denied that she had been a member for some years of the Kaiser's household and had painted a picture of him.

STOCK MARKET DEAD; PRICES STATIONARY

With the exception of a few leading stocks, there was little animation to the stock market. The rails were irregular and coppers quiet, with prices nearly unchanged. Reading opened off ⅝, made up its loss, and then fell back to 91⅝. New York Central was off ¼ at 77¾, and Union Pacific up ⅝, at 127⅛. Anaconda sold unchanged at 68.

U. S. Steel was ½ higher at the close at 107⅝, up ⅜, but lost part of its gain. Crucible sold 65¾, up ¼; Bethlehem B, 85, up ¾; Republic Steel ranged between 93⅝ and 93¾.

American Can sold up ⅜, at 48⅞. Steel Foundries gained the same at 70⅜.

Fractional gains were made by Baldwin Locomotive, 82¾; Car & Foundry, 55⅞; National Conduit, 51½; Distillers, 57½; Marine pfd, 103⅜—Mexican Petroleum, 101½; Railway Steel Spring, 61; Tobacco Products, 64⅜; United Cigar Stores, 109⅝, and Willys-Overland, 20. Most of these stocks lost part of their gains later in the day. Sumatra Tobacco sold at 135⅞, up 1⅜, after selling as high as 136¼ and as low as 134⅝. General Motors at 154¾ gained ⅝.

All issues were quiet in the second hour, with little change from earlier quotations.

The Boston market was tame. Copper Range, East Butte, United Shoe, United Fruit and Swift & Co. were unchanged. Fairbanks Company showed most life, rising to 35½, a gain of 1½ points, and a new high record. American Telephone rose a point to 96⅝. Boston Elevated opened at 73½, advanced to 74, and receded to 72½.

WOMEN'S PARTY INDORSES MEET ON COMMON

Suffragist Leaders to Urge Passage at Once of "Votes" Amendment by Senate

Unanimous approval of and hearty co-operation in the great patriotic demonstration on Boston Common Saturday at noon for the immediate passage by the Senate of the suffrage amendment was voted today by the Massachusetts branch of the National Women's party.

Following an enthusiastic meeting of the board of directors of the Women's Party, held at No. 9 Park street, it was voted to appoint a committee consisting of Mrs. W. B. Henderson, chairman; Miss Ruth Small, secretary; Miss Elizabeth Gray and Miss Ethel Saunders to assist in advertising the meeting.

A resolution was passed requesting the members of the National Women's Party to be present at the meeting on the Common Saturday noon and to assist in every way possible in obtaining signatures to the suffrage petitions being circulated by the AMERICAN.

It was voted to appoint Mrs. Frederick W. Sykes of Cambridge, vice-chairman of the Massachusetts branch and the official representative of the Boston organization, as one of the speakers on the big program. Notice of the action of the board was sent to all Massachusetts members at the close of the meeting.

WALKER WILL PRESIDE.

Hon. Joseph Walker of Brookline, former Speaker of the Massachusetts House, will preside at the meeting and deliver the opening address. The meeting will take place at the Parkman bandstand and music will be furnished both before and during the demonstration by the Boston City Band, William E. Cornell, conductor.

The list of prominent speakers who have already indicated their readiness to address the meeting are as follows:

Congressman Alvan T. Fuller of Malden.

Susan W. Fitzgerald, former president of the Massachusetts Women's Suffrage Association.

Ex-Governor John L. Bates, chairman of the Constitutional Convention.

Mrs. Wenona Osborne Pinkham, executive secretary of the Boston Equal Suffrage Association for Good Government.

Attorney James H. Vahey, former Democratic candidate for Governor.

Mrs. Frederick W. Sykes, vice-chairman of the Massachusetts Branch of the National Women's Party.

Mrs. Elizabeth Glendower Evans, former member of the Massachusetts Minimum Wage Commission, who has just returned from the suffrage campaign in Washington, D. C.

Hon. Joseph Walker, ex-Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

Some of the New England notables who favor the campaign at this time to secure the vote for women are as follows:

JOHN B. TIVNAN, member Massachusetts Commission on Venereal Diseases—If ever there was a time when woman should be given the first consideration, that time is now, when she is making the greatest of all sacrifices—for the second time the constitutes the great sustaining line here at home. Without her initiative and patriotic fervor we would fail. With her we are certain to win. By all means give the "mothers of men," the mothers of our heroes, the ballot in no unrestricted sense.

CITY CLERK FRANK GRANT of Newton—Suffrage should be granted women at once on other purpose than to show them that we appreciate their help during these strenuous war times."

EBEN J. WILLIAMS, ex-Mayor of Waltham—I am heartily in favor of the Susan B. Anthony suffrage amendment, and I believe the President is correct in declaring that equal suffrage is a necessary war measure.

ANDREW PRIOR, sealer of weights and measures, Newton—We must back up the President in all things relative to the war. He says the suffrage amendment is a necessary war measure, then, by all means, let us have universal women's suffrage.

PROF. ARTHUR GORDON WEBSTER of Clark University—I am heartily in favor of suffrage and of the most effective methods in attaining it. I believe it to be in line with justice and clean, pure democracy. I think there is every argument in favor of it and I have heard of none against it that could not be refuted.

IF YOU WOULD WEAR ONE-PIECE SUIT GO TO REVERE—NOT NANTASKET

Fair water nymphs arrayed in attractive bathing costumes at Revere Beach. Blanche La Belle (at top), Grace T. Rich and Christina Wallace, (centre), and (below) Reta Norton.

Listen, girls!

You may bathe without stockings at either Revere or Nantasket.

And you may bathe in a one-piece suit at Revere so long as it is decent.

But—

One-piece suits will not be tolerated at Nantasket.

Such is the latest in bathing circles.

The Metropolitan Park Commission has decreed that the members of the fair sex may bathe in any costume that is proper or decent, according to officials of the commission.

However, Sergeant Marshall, at the Metropolitan Police Station at Nantasket, takes exceptions to one-piece suits. He has made it plain that he will not stand for them.

"One-piece bathing suits? I should say not," said Sergeant Marshall. "Why, they are not a fit costume for either a man or woman and are not tolerated here."

Lieutenant Hawkins of the Metropolitan Park station at Revere takes a different viewpoint.

"Well, they bathe stockingless here and also take a dip in a one-piece," declared Lieutenant Hawkins, "and as long as they are decent we never bother them. But just you say for me that our greatest difficulty is in keeping women out of the water with extremely tight weight costumes, which become semi-transparent when wet."

And there you have it.

NAVY PRISONERS ESCAPE FROM DEER ISLAND

Some time following the Fourth of July celebration at the United States Naval detention camp, Deer Island, two prisoners awaiting trial on desertion charges managed to effect escape from this island. As yet they have not been apprehended.

The men, Seamen Cummings and Measerole, were prisoners forwarded from New York, who had originally deserted and been arrested in that district.

Cummings and Measerole first stole a row boat, the property of the city of Boston, and then made their flight. As yet no trace of the boat has been found.

On the night of the holiday there was a motion picture show and entertainment in the prison chapel. Cummings and Measerole were in audience. It was at reville sounds at 5 o'clock the next morning that the men were reported missing.

FATAL SHOOTING ON SHIP AT MYSTIC PIER

A colored member of the crew of a steamer docked at Mystic Pier was shot and killed today in a quarrel aboard the ship. James Houston of the crew was arrested charged with the murder. Houston fled after the shooting. He was captured and disarmed on the wharf by Watchman Nawheney. The wounded man died on an operating table at the Relief Hospital, soon after a surgical check. His name has not been learned.

Pawtucket Mill Strike Settlement Is Believed Matter of a Few Hours

Pawtucket, R. I., July 10.—Settlement of the textile strike here may now be a matter of only a few hours, for Henry J. Steffington, immigration commissioner at the Port of Boston, has come here as the representative of the Federal government, and is making every effort to reach a satisfactory adjustment.

He has already conferred with John Golden and John W. Powers, representatives, respectively, of the national and local organizations of the textile workers, and will hold a conference this afternoon, with the mill owners, it is understood.

POLICEMEN ESCORT AT FUNERAL OF BRENNAN

Following services at the home, No. 34 Langdon road, Brighton, a solemn high requiem mass was celebrated at the church by the Rev. Eliot Ward. Twelve of the pallbearers, all policemen attached to the Dudley street station, were Patrolmen Daniel F. Driscoll, Thomas F. Harrington, Patrick F. Moore, Michael Donovan and Reserve Officers John M. Quale and James J. Fallon.

LYNN SOLDIER DIES OF BATTLE WOUNDS

Massion was born in Beverly, June 27, 1900. He enlisted in the Coast Artillery when sixteen years old and was later transferred to Company D, 3rd Infantry, and saw service on the Mexican border. PETITION TO THE SENATE FOR A SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT

PETITION to the Senate to Support the President of the United States and Pass the Suffrage Amendment in Accordance with the Request of the President of the United States.

TO THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES:

The President says that the Suffrage Amendment should be passed as a just recognition of the work American women have done for the support of the war. We agree with the President.

The President says that this Suffrage Amendment is a necessary war measure; that it will help to win the war.

Senators, that alone is surely reason enough why you should vote for the amendment.

Senators, your petitioners urge you to stand by the President and to heed his advice, and to vote for the Suffrage Amendment both as a war measure that will help us to win victory sooner and as an act of high justice to the patriotic women of the United States.

Sweaters and Silks Recovered by Police in Dorchester Shops

Thousands of dollars' worth of Red Cross sweaters for American soldiers overseas, and mittens, cloth, silk, velvet and leather, were seized in raids upon two cobbler shops and a tailor shop and the homes of the proprietors in the Geneva avenue section of Dorchester.

Three men were arrested, one charged with the larceny of Red Cross materials, cloth, silks and velvet, one with the larceny of leather, and one is held on suspicion. Hyman Asoff of No. 412 Geneva avenue, who conducts a tailor shop at No. 445 Geneva avenue, is charged with the larceny of the Red Cross goods and the cloth. He maintained to the police that a man named Max left the Red Cross sweaters at his house and that he had bought all the other goods, but the police allege that he could not produce bills for them all.

The first raid was made on the cobbler shop of Max Rubinstein at No. 441 Geneva avenue, where the police took possession of a large amount of expensive top leather, they found piled in the back of the place under rubbish. The leather was wrapped in paper bearing the name of F. E. Taylor, Montello, Mass. Later a representative of the Boston office of the company identified the leather as coming from the concern. Rubinstein's house was also searched.

The police also searched the cobbler shop of Max Milestone of No. 464 Geneva avenue and his house at No. 87 Topliff street.

The Red Cross sweaters were found at Asoff's house, and at his shop the cloth, silks and velvet.

"THERE'S A REASON"

FRENCH IS GONE; 'NEVER AGAIN' FOR BOSTON

"Ed" Heads Toward Newport, but He May Yet Get Into the Tank Corps

Exit Edward Tuck French, millionaire bridegroom.

A few curious persons gathered at the South Station and saw the last of the man whose matrimonial affairs have for two weeks been front page stuff. Mr. French was unaccompanied and left Boston in the general direction of Newport and home. May he hell see the board walk at Atlantic City, his uncle's ranch in California, the Tank Corps — who knows?

Having received no direct word from "Tot" Harrington, his bride of a few days, French has decided that as all women are deceivers he will forget the whole sex. He may even spend his time roping Texas long horns while his family's attorney set about the business of unravelling the matrimonial tangle in which the heir to the French millions has involved himself.

Word was received by French just before his leaving town that his bride had been joined by her mother from Laconia, N. H., had effected a reconciliation with her family and was awaiting the result of the legal efforts to settle her from the French family of Newport.

There are several stops between Boston and Newport, and French intimated that he might leave the train en route.

There were those who thought he might get as far as Newport on the first leg of his journey. This was borne out by the fact that his sister, Mrs. Jack Geraghty, with her husband Chief Machinist's Mate Geraghty of the Aviation Corps, is there. An opportunity for a family reconciliation is offered to French by the presence of his sister and her husband in Newport.

The Geraghtys went there from Brookline and are visiting Geraghty's family at their Clinton avenue home. Geraghty attended the Newport Besch dance, where he was very much in evidence, and danced with a dozen girls whom he used to know in the days of peace. Meanwhile his wife called on her mother, Mrs. Pauline Leroy French, and those who know say the subject of their conversation was the matrimonial affairs of the son and brother.

Murlin to Deliver Address

President L. H. Murlin of Boston University will address the Summer School of Woman's Foreign Missionary Societies of Methodist Churches Sunday morning, at Northfield, where they are holding a conference.

HE'S GONE; FRENCH SMILES HIS FAREWELL TO BOSTON

The Newport heir to millions and relative of British aristocracy was snapped as he boarded a train on the way to Atlantic City, the West, mayhap Uncle Sam's Tank Corps—he confesses he doesn't know; what with his phone girl bride, "Tot" Harrington, deserting him twice in a two weeks' honeymoon. But Ed admits it's "Never again" for him, so far as Boston is concerned.

FRENCH TELLS OF THE NURSE HE LOVED

But Finally He Meets the "Sweetest Girl in the World"

Julia and I were always most chummy. At the time of her marriage I was the best member of the family to write congratulations to her. Since then we have been very dear pals. We have always endeavored to help each other. She is a very sweet girl and one to be admired for the brave step she took and the fine husband she secured.

Jack is a fine young chap who has always been very sweet to my sister. He has been very cordial to me. At present, as the circumstances are now, Jack was the first one to see me, sympathize with me and ask if he could do anything for me.

I told him, of course, "No."

But this is getting ahead of things a little. After living with the Derbyshires at Woburn for four months I spent a very interesting Winter in New York, at Palm Beach and so on. The following summer I lived at the home of Mrs. Samuel J. Ward, my other sister, at Babylon, L. I.

Following this I stayed at New York the Winter of 1917, and, of course, there, as usual, I met many girls in the restaurant—the Moulin Rouge, Rectors, Jacks and so on. After that Winter I went to Newport last Spring.

MUCH CRITICISED.

I was very much criticised and was referred to as being the reckless and spoiled child of French.

All my friends said that sooner or later I would certainly end in trouble. I had a car at the time. The speed at which I drove it was the talk of Newport. But I paid no attention to these warnings. On October 1, while I was driving with a girl—whose name I will not mention—I was taking the Ocean Drive at about sixty miles an hour—I misjudged a turn near the Davids place. Our car went over twice. I have no recollection of what happened after that. I was unconscious two days in Newport Hospital. But I was brought back to health and happiness by a very sweet nurse.

I fell in love with her but in two months I realized how very little she cared about me. In June, 1918, after taking exams for college, I met the most beautiful little girl in the world—Miss Lillian Mary Harrington of Manchester, N. H.

Miss Harrington was introduced to me by a girl at whose home I boarded while I was in Cambridge.

As a matter of fact, only eight days elapsed between the time I was presented to Miss Harrington and the day we were married.

She was very sweet. I could not help but fall in love with her at first shot.

INTERESTED AT ONCE.

The very first evening I met her we dined at the Georgian. We became greatly interested in one another.

I proposed to her that very evening, before our dinner was half over, while two friends with us were dancing. These friends had no idea, of course, how rapidly matters were progressing.

She accepted me that evening and we began to make our marriage plans.

But I had to go home to Newport for a few days with my family after my examinations were over. Before I parted from Miss Harrington we swore that, as soon as I was able to return to Cambridge we should be married without loss of time.

I returned to Cambridge Thursday, June 27. Mr. and Mrs. Geraghty and Miss Anne McHolden dined with Miss Harrington and myself at the Brunswick.

Jack and Julia had no idea that Miss Harrington and I were engaged. When I took Miss Harrington home after dinner that night it was understood that we would be married the next day.

Fighting Back of the Lines

Inferior, low-grade gasoline costs most in the long run. You count the cost in low mileage, weak power and excess carbon deposits.

So-CO-NY is the Quality gasoline. It reduces the operating cost of your car by delivering more miles per gallon. It saves.

And in saving you are "doing your bit" these days. You are actually fighting back of the lines.

Al Jolson's Biggest Dixie Hit of "Sinbad"

"Rock-a-Bye Your Baby with a Dixie Melody"—that's the line that gives this song its title, and that's the place the Solid South stands up and applauds. A Winter Garden hit sweeping North, East and West, as well as South. A2560—75c

Here's "The Daughter of Rosie O'Grady"

—and every bit as sweet as her mother was before her. A song already nationally popular—with just such a dreamy lilt and cadence as made its namesake famous. Sung by Robert Lewis with an orchestral accompaniment in which the violins weave fascinating strains of the old "Rosie" through the dominating melody of the new. On the back, "Bye-and-Bye," a beautiful song of soldier hope. A2561—75c

Marimbaphone Band Breezes Through "Cotton Pickers' Ball"

A new kind of dance music! Full of dash and sparkle and the wild weird minors of monster marimbas syncopating neck and neck. As for the tune—this jazz-classic needs no introduction to dancers. A2550—75c

HEAD OF K. OF C. WAR FUND HAS HUGE TASK

William J. Mulligan, Widely Known Here, Holds Position of Great Responsibility

William J. Mulligan, widely known here as a national director of the Knights of Columbus and present acting chairman of its committee in charge of work for the soldiers and sailors of the United States, has practically full charge of the disbursement of funds at the rate of $1,000,000 a week to promote the welfare of the men in camp and abroad.

Mr. Mulligan, who is a lawyer of Thompsonville, Ct., has for many years been active in the work of the Knights of Columbus, and has now succeeded for the time being Colonel P. H. Callahan of Louisville, Ky., in charge of the order's war work.

The Knights of Columbus will raise at least $50,000,000 during the present year, and will keep up that rate if necessary during the war. At present demands upon the organization are increasing rapidly, for not only are great numbers of huts needed to accompany National Guard units that are being rushed abroad, but the work has now extended into Italy.

OPEN NEW SERVICE HOME.

The home work is also a large item. An example may be found in Boston, where the Knights of Columbus Hub on Tremont street has become a centre for young men in uniform.

Recently the Knights have opened a service home at No. 34 Warrenton street, formerly the Hemenway House for working girls. They are now renovating the old Notre Dame Academy building on Berkeley street, which will be equipped with 500 beds to accomodate men on leave in Boston, and with recreation rooms where they may be entertained.

What is being done in this city is being done over the entire country. Money is being spent to renovate buildings as service homes for the men, and everything possible is being done for their comfort.

Secretaries are urgently needed for duty at the front. Already about 100 men have been sent over. There is need of a thousand or more, at once.

WORK VARIES RAPIDLY.

The work abroad varies considerably. At posts some distance from the battle line, large buildings are rented or built to serve as headquarters for the work. Near the front line, however, the situation changes so rapidly at times that everything must be portable, and kitchen automobiles are an important part of the equipment.

The knights are established all along the French and Belgian fronts already, and plan to make their work fully as extensive on the Italian battle line. They have also established a number of homes in England for convalescent American soldiers and sailors.

An idea of the magnitude of the work can be obtained from the fact that at present the knights are sending 50,000,000 cigarettes and proportionate amounts of candy abroad to the men in the trenches.

Judge William J. Day of the South Boston District, District Attorney Pelletier and Assistant District Attorney Gallahan, State officers of the knights, are in close touch with Mr. Mulligan and are co-operating with him in every way.

ACTOR VOKES TAKES JOB ON FARM

By THOMAS F. PHELAN,
United States Farm Labor Agent.

Come on you coppersmiths and outside machinists, get busy and accept a job. Paul Mulready will be at the United States Employment Service, No. 52 Canal street, all day to greet and sign you up. He would like to hire 300 coppersmiths and 200 outside machinists. He promises those who accept 72½ cents an hour for a nine-hour day. The work is to be done at a ship yard not far from Boston, where Uncle Sam has five big ships under construction. This is a good chance for men who mean business.

OFFERS 85 CENTS AN HOUR.

LeRoy McGrath will be on hand, also, to ship a number of men to Pennsylvania, who are experienced in the plastering line. A woman has a contract there to build a side wall of cement. She will pay men who stick to the job 85 cents an hour and board. She will also pay fare both ways. Farmers from New Hampshire, Vermont and the Western part of the State will hire experienced milkers. Quite a number of welders and general farmhands are also wanted.

Harry Weed, who played in all parts of the country in vaudeville sketches with "Gus" Ward, called at the AMERICAN Farm Labor Bureau and qualified for a position. He prefers the open country to the stage in the Summer time.

A middle-aged man attracted a great deal of attention when he sauntered into the Canal street office. He said he wanted to see about a farm job. He entertained the examiners with a little poetry. And then he let loose this pearl of thought:

"The jolliest life that ever was led, Always to court and never to wed."

IS JOLLY BACHELOR.

"You see," he continued, as he cleared his throat, "I always made it a practice to read the newspapers for tips, and when I read in Tuesday's AMERICAN that good milkers were needed in New Hampshire, and feeling that my experience in that line qualified me for a position, I thought I'd come in and make application."

"Are you married?" he was asked, the examiner having in mind his poetic effusion on bachelorhood.

"No, I'm a bachelor," he replied. He said he referred to the "jolliest life" because he had work in mind.

"I believe in courting with work always, but never getting married to it," he added. "The 'work or fight' law is my reason for getting busy just now and flirting with work again. I like to travel from place to place. If I was married I never could do that, as you know. I've been a moulder, pick-and-shovel expert, car driver and ice man. But now the call of the wild has overcome me. I like milking in the open country."

A farmer who listened to the man's interesting talk bargained with him to go to Derry, N. H., for $60 a month and board.

Fifteen farmhands are wanted in Barre, Mass.

LOVE FOR SONS TRIUMPHS IN DEATH

Boston Kin Fights Will of Hurley, Who Rights Wrong to His Natural Children

Of the love of a man for children whom he has wronged by bringing them into the world without the legal protection of his name; of the night life of a great city, as centred about a famous cafe where men and women from far and near brushed elbows; of a liaison existing for years, and made notable by public acknowledgment and attempted restitution, strange glimpses are shown in the contest over the will of Timothy Hurley, former proprietor of "Jack's" celebrated restaurant in New York, who died last December.

CONTESTED BY BOSTON KIN.

The will is being contested by Boston relatives—Dennis Hurley of Hyde Park and Mary Minnehan of Brookline, brother and sister of the deceased.

By its terms Timothy Hurley left the bulk of his estate to his two natural sons, Timothy and James, and made public acknowledgment of the woman who was their mother. Thus do the avenging years sometimes turn the tables on society and its conventions, sustain the innocent, and exact their toll of the man instead of the woman who, under man-made laws, usually pays. Thus has conscience, urged by paternal love and latent honor, triumphed over the worldly code that men cherish, and paternal love over death.

The man who, scorning reputation, calls the world to witness his love and solicitude for his children, has brought a thrill even into the court annals of a big city whose substance and fabric is built upon human thrills.

UNDUE INFLUENCE CHARGED.

Hurley died in Stamford, Ct., on the last day of the old year, and his will was filed January 22. It is contested by his relatives on the ground of undue influence exerted by several persons, notably Mrs. Jennie Brew, who, according to the testator is the mother of his children; John Dunston, his business partner at "Jack's," and Champe S. Andrews, an attorney named in the will.

Aside from a number of minor legacies, the will reads:

"All the rest and remainder of my estate of which I am seized I give, devise and bequeath to my two natural sons—Timothy Hurley and James Hurley—whose mother is Mrs. Jennie Brew, nee Carroll.

FRIEND IS FREE TO TELL.

"If my said natural children, Timothy Hurley and James Hurley, desire to know the story of my relations with their mother and my feelings for them, I hereby inform them that I have given my friend and attorney, Mr. Champe S. Andrews, full information regarding these points, and I hereby release him freely to convey to them the information."

The will is dated February 24, 1905, and is executed by John Dunston, Mrs. Brew and Daniel Hurley, a brother of the deceased, living at No. 352 West 48th street. The entire estate is valued at more than $15,000.

For some years before his death Hurley had made his home at Jack's, and his was a familiar figure to the thousands who yearly drifted in and out of the famous restaurant.

ONE HELD FOR GRAND JURY IN RED CROSS CASE

As a result of raids in which the police seized quantities of Red Cross material in the Geneva avenue district of Dorchester, three men were before Judge Morrill in the Dorchester Court today. Patrolman Daniel Hines was the prosecuting officer.

Max Rubinstein, who maintains a cobbler shop in Geneva avenue, where the police seized a lot of expensive top leather, hidden under rubbish, was held for the Grand Jury in $800 bail.

Hyman Azoff, of Geneva avenue, whose the police found a quantity of Red Cross goods, had his case continued until July 20.

Max Milestone, of Topliff street, who has a cobbler shop in Geneva avenue, was found not guilty and discharged.

CHAUFFEUR FINED ON LIQUOR CHARGE, APPEALS

Methuen, July 10.—Andrew O'Brien, a Boston chauffeur, was fined $100 in police court here on the charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Through his counsel, Attorney McIsaacs, of Boston, he appealed, and was held for the grand jury in the sum of $500. He is already held on a bail of $5,000 on the charge of manslaughter.

O'Brien was arrested June 30 following a crash of limousines on the Lawrence-Lowell boulevard, which resulted in the deaths of two passengers of one of the cars.

FREEDMAN, WOUNDED IN FRANCE, WAS VOLUNTEER

Private Joseph Freedman of the Second Ambulance Company was severely wounded on May 30, according to a telegram received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Freedman, of No. 20 Burton street, East End. Freedman enlisted at the time of the trouble on the Mexican border at the age of seventeen. Previous to joining the colors he worked at the Fore River shipyards.

INJURED BY FALL IN GARAGE, ASKS $3,000

The Caverly Automobile Company of Somerville has been sued for $3,000 by William C. Wilder of Somerville. He alleges that on April 5, 1918, while in the defendant's garage, he was severely injured by falling down a flight of stairs, which were not properly guarded.

KILL NEW PLAN TO APPORTION LEGISLATORS

Constitutional Convention, by 117 to 64 Vote, Stands by Legal Voter Basis

The Constitutional Convention, by a vote of 117 to 64, defeated the proposed amendment to have the apportionment of the Legislature based on the total population of legislative districts, instead of on the basis of legal voters, as now.

Had the present system did not escape a flaying. Delegates James H. Brennan of Charlestown, Martin M. Lomasney of Boston, Michael A. Sullivan of Lawrence, the Rev. Roland D. Sawyer of Wareham and others asserted that the present system of apportionment is a relic of the Know-Nothing period of the '50's, which was devised to shut out from proper representation in our Legislature the immigrants then coming for the first time in large numbers to "the asylum of the oppressed."

Mr. Brennan gave some interesting figures to prove the contention that thousands of alien residents, orderly, peaceful and well-educated, though denied the right to vote because they can't read the constitution in the English language, are deprived of proportional representation in the law-making bodies.

Ward 5, Boston, with 77,573 population, has three representatives in the House. The Back Bay, Ward 8, with 38,000 population, has the same number. Berkshire County, with 114,000 population, has eight representatives, but Bristol County, with 346,000, has but nineteen. On the same basis with Berkshire, Bristol would have twenty-four, he said.

Delegate Joseph J. Leonard of Boston, the gerrymander as an unfair party device to obtain political control.

Mr. Lomasney said that the national Congress is made up on the basis of population and that the same system has been adopted in every State save Massachusetts. "The aliens showed in the Civil War, in the Spanish War and in this war that they are patriotic and reliable," he said. "Will this Convention sit here and deny the rights of humanity to them?"

Too Many Quinns Make Trouble for One of Clan

By International News Service.

New York, July 10 — Joseph Quinn, released yesterday after a nine months' stay at Blackwell's Island for stealing an automobile, was met by Keeper Patrick Quinn and told that Policeman Michael Quinn wanted him on a charge of stealing an automobile from one Dennis Quinn, in 1916.

Thereupon Joseph Quinn protested, asking whence this Michael Quinn hailed from and who Dennis Quinn might be. Michael told him. Michael, it seems, was from the New York police force, Harlem division, and Dennis Quinn was of Springfield, Mass. Joseph had to accompany Michael to the Harlem police station. There Michael introduced Joseph to Police Lieutenant Morris Quinn. Joseph acquiesced to a trip to Springfield, Mass., to answer the charge.

CALL BANK MAN IN GRAND JURY FISH PROBE

Hallett, Who Got $200,000 Stock From Bay State Co., Summoned by Attwill

President Herbert K. Hallett of the Fourth Atlantic National Bank, who received from the Bay State Fishing Company $200,000 of common stock, on which the fish consumers are now paying dividends of $12,000 a year, was today summoned before the Suffolk County Grand Jury by Attorney General Attwill in the fish probe.

Hallett was a business friend of F. Monroe Dyer of New York, who promoted the merger of the old Bay State Fishing Company of Massachusetts and several wholesale fish houses into the Bay State Fishing Company of Maine, and whose "idea" is said to have netted him over $1,000,000.

In the evidence before the fish probe committee of the Legislature, Hallett testified that he secured a loan of $65,000 for Dyer from his bank and that Dyer gave him the $200,000 worth of stock for his services. Hallett testified that Dyer has paid back nearly all the $65,000 to the bank and that he has given security for the small balance.

The Grand Jury proceedings are ... continue at least three more days.

27,000 FILIPINOS ARE READY TO TAKE FIELD

New York, July 10.—"There are 27,000 trained soldiers—Filipinos—in the Philippine Islands, ready to take the field, and every one of them will fight like demons." In this manner Lieutenant-Colonel James Ross of Manilla yesterday described the state of preparedness in America's island possession. "They ought to be sent to co-operate with the Japanese in Siberia if the government decides to make that move."

"On your left you will see—"

ISN'T it strange how often we who were born and brought up in Boston have to admit in those from out-of-town? Have we ever visited Bunker Hill monument, Old South Church, scene of the Boston massacre or some equally famous spot?

We usually miss the good things that are too close to appreciate. Consequently when we extend an invitation to strangers to go all over the Filene store, we also extend that invitation to Bostonese as well, many of whom come here to shop but have never yet really "seen the store."

The Filene store is one of the sights of Boston. We are sorry we cannot take you via the wireless station, now, but the government has that under armed guard. But the other sights of the store are still as interesting, and there are plenty of them.

From engine room to cobbler shop, from restaurant to hospital, from printing plant to school room, there are many sights that even the oldest inhabitant will enjoy seeing. A guide is at your service without charge.

And to give the right war-like touch, you should look carefully over the remarkable exhibition of Posters of all nations which adorn the walls of the stairways and the various floors and to which we are adding daily.

The Poster Exhibit alone is worth a visit.

7-CENT FARE NECESSARY TO MEET THE DEMANDS OF THE ELEVATED

$2,979,920 IN NEW BURDENS; ALL COSTS ARE DOUBLED; SIX CENTS WON'T DO

Confronted by enormous boosts in the cost of wages, materials and other operating expenses, the Boston Elevated public trustees today intimated that a seven-cent fare would be necessary to rehabilitate the road and to provide good service for the people.

The new burdens that confront the trustees are these:

$560,000—New wage schedule.

$250,000—If additional wage demands are granted.

$560,920—Annual deficit from operation under the 5-cent fare.

$1,104,000—For dividends and interest charges.

$475,000—Rental of new Dorchester tunnel.

Total—$2,979,920.

These items do not include the increased cost of materials, some of which have jumped 400 per cent, nor the increased cost of leased cars of equipment to repair the property.

GREAT INCREASE IN COSTS.

Cars that a year ago cost the Elevated $8,000, now cost $15,000.

The six-cent fare would yield about $2,500,000 of extra revenue, the trustees say. That would not be sufficient to pay the increased costs of operation, to say nothing of buying new cars and property to put the road in first-class condition for its patrons. It is expected a seven-cent fare will "do the job" in a big way. The trustees will hold hearings before putting the new rate into effect.

Announcement was made today by the trustees that every cent that is raised by the car-riders will be spent by the people's officials on the Elevated. The private stockholders of the Elevated will receive only a 5 per cent. dividend. The balance of income goes into the improvement of the property.

EVERYTHING HAS "GONE UP."

In the convention Senator Herbert A. Wilson of Brighton, member of Senate Committee on Metropolitan Affairs, which handled the Elevated bill jointly with the Committee on Street Railways, said today:

"Transportation is like everything else, the price has gone up, the same as the price of milk, clothing and so on. This increase in Elevated fares was bound to come. It was either that or put the road in the hands of a receiver. The trustees cannot meet their overhead with a five-cent fare.

"Eventually, when the trustees have had time to secure new cars and other equipment, this will mean improved service. Of course, it does not mean that you can drop a seven-cent fare in the box and get all the needed improvements immediately. It will take time. But in due time the extra fare which passengers will be called upon to pay will come back to them in the increased facilities and improved service.

FITZGERALD ASKS HEARINGS.

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald said:

"I think there should be public hearings on any question of increasing Elevated fares. Then, the question should be considered of zoning the Elevated district and not charging a flat fare. If a flat seven-cent fare is charged, that would mean that a person could ride from Arlington to Mattapan, for instance, at the same rate charged for a person riding three blocks.

It is a question whether the public will be satisfied with such an arrangement. A zone system may not be practical, but that could be determined through public hearings. Some three or four months ago President Brush told me that he considered a zone system and that it was practical. There should be public hearings.

Elevated trustees cannot shut themselves up in a room and arbitrarily determine a fare increase.

In dealing with the situation, the trustees say:

"Enlarged increases in cost of operation, including dividends and depreciation for the ensuing year, which are absolutely certain, making no allowance whatever for increased cost of materials, increased wages, taxes, increased standard of maintenance, etc., or any provision for the necessary increase in rate of wage of employes, amount to more than $4,200,000.

DEMANDS PROMPT ACTION.

"When it is recognized that one-cent increase of the flat unit of fare, assuming that as many cash passengers ride the ensuing year as rode last year, would amount to $2,650,000, it can readily be seen that the situation demands not only prompt, but very strenuous action.

The trustees declare that their analysis of the property and finances of the road, as far as they have made it shows that there has been a deficit below fixed charges which amount to $560,920 a year.

In reference to the prospective increase in wages for employes the statement says:

"It is known that one cent per hour increase for every employe of the company is equivalent to approximately $250,000 a year increase in the company's payroll. The total payroll for the company last year was $9,035,000.

"It can readily be seen, therefore, that any slight increase in fare or slight modification of tariff will by no means meet the situation, and in view of the fact that they are compelled by the act to charge such fares as actually to meet the cost of service they will have no option in the immediate future than to make a very substantial increase in fares."

The statement continues:

"The fact that car fares have been raised or application for increases are pending in 57 out of 67 cities of 100,000 or more population, together with the fact that many large properties such as the New York Railways, The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company and the Twin City Rapid Transit Company have already commenced efforts to secure increases in fare are merely indicative of the condition confronting electric railways at this time.

MANY INCREASES GRANTED.

"The Public Service Commission of Massachusetts has granted increases to most of the companies in the State, and Monday, July 1, the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn went to a seven-cent fare, as did also the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway. Further, very substantial changes in tariff have been made on the Bay State Street Railway Company's lines with a view to materially increasing their revenue.

"Six cent fares are now being collected instead of the former five-cent fare on car lines of a large number of cities and towns such as St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Portland, Ore., New Haven, Fall River, Lowell, Wilkesbarre and other cities. Zone systems have been put into effect in Providence, Springfield, Pawtucket, Woonsocket and other cities.

"Applications for fare increases have been made by electric railways in the following cities—in the case of the New Jersey cities for a seven-cent fare and in the case of a majority of the others for a six-cent fare; to wit:

"New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Buffalo, Milwaukee, Newark, Minneapolis, Seattle, Jersey City, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Denver, Rochester, St. Paul, Louisville, Columbus, Atlanta, Richmond, Syracuse, Memphis, Scranton, Paterson, Albany, Des Moines, Schenectady, Utica and many others.

"The trustees find the Elevated road is no exception to the general case throughout the country, and in the analysis that they have and are making of the property they find that for the first five months of this calendar year there has been a deficit below of fixed charges of $233,719, or at the rate of $560,926 per year.

TO MEET ALL CHARGES.

"The trustees are confronted by the problem that they are compelled by action of the last Legislature so to adjust the fares as to meet all operating expenses, taxes, rentals, interest on all indebtedness, allowance for depreciation and all other expenditures, together with fixed charges on new preferred stock recently issued, as well as $5 per share on the common stock, this latter amounting to $1,194,000.

"They are also confronted with the additional charge this year as compared with the last year of $475,000 rental for the Dorchester tunnel, together with increased cost of material, increased income tax, and necessarily an increased maintenance account to bring the property up to the standard sufficient to render the service this year necessary to the community.

"There has been much discussion during the past two years in the various hearings, conferences, etc., as to the best manner of increasing the revenue of street railway companies and various schemes, such as flat increase in unit of fare, the adoption of some sort of zone system, the charging for or elimination of transfers, etc., have been suggested.

"The case is serious, however, and requires prompt action. The trustees anticipate continuing their study of the situation with a view of ascertaining if possible whether some still more equitable and improved method of increasing the revenue can be devised. Any delay, however, at this time resulting from any extended survey or study of the general fare situation would be decidedly injurious, from the standpoint of carrying out the terms of the act in furnishing as good transportation as possible.

OPTIONS ON EQUIPMENT.

"The trustees have availed themselves of options secured on equipment several weeks ago which not only permit purchases of this equipment at a lower rate than it could be bought for today, but gives a much more prompt delivery than if orders were placed today.

"The trustees realize that any delay in properly facing the real facts at the outset merely piles up trouble for the future, as all charges under the act commenced July 1, 1918, and the dividends on all stock outstanding, together with fixed charges, rentals, taxes, bond interest, etc., including higher wages, must all be paid by the company securing ample revenues by means of increased fares.

"The public, of course, can do much toward co-operating with the trustees in exercising every reasonable economy, and it is sincerely believed that the accident situation alone can be materially benefited by a recognition on the part of the public that any money paid out for accidents simply comes out of the car rider. To the extent that either accidents can be reduced and the company placed in a stronger position to properly defend itself against any unfairness in respect to accident damages, there will be a corresponding effect upon modification of fare increases.

"The trustees fully expect to take definite action on the fare question in the immediate future and sincerely hope that the public as a whole who indicated their desire for public management by the action of the recent Legislature will give the trustees every conceivable co-operation and benefit of doubt and show sufficient patience to permit them to work out a most trying and difficult situation."

WHY 'L' TRUSTEES URGE 7-CENT FARE

To meet deficit of approximately $560,920 below fixed charges.

To meet operating expenses, taxes, rentals, interest, allowance for depreciation.

To meet fixed charges on new preferred stock as well as $5 per share on common stock, the latter amounting to $1,194,000.

To pay $475,000 additional rental of Dorchester tunnel this year.

To pay an increased income tax, higher prices for material and necessarily an increased maintenance account to bring the property up to a standard sufficient to render necessary service.

To pay $250,000 additional in wages if demands of employes are granted.

To pay $13,530 for a semi-convertible car which cost $6,992 five years ago and $8,750 two years ago.

REVERE PEOPLE DEMAND FARE REDUCTION

Protest 7-Cent Rate Recently Allowed Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad

Revere is up in arms against the increased rate of fare recently allowed the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad by the Public Service Commission. Residents of the city in mass meeting have passed resolutions and signed petitions demanding a reduction of fares and a reopening of the case so that their side may be heard.

Ten days ago the Public Service Commission allowed a two-cent raise in the fares of the "Narrow Gauge," making a ride cost seven cents, whereas formerly it cost only a nickel.

What the people of Revere demand is the zone system. The distance between some of the Narrow Gauge stations is not more than two or three city blocks, and the citizens want a nickel fare for all stations within the boundary.

WHERE TO INTERN WOMEN ENEMY ALIENS IS PUZZLE

Chicago, July 10.—District Attorney Cline and other Federal officials faced the problem of "where shall enemy alien women be interned?" today, when the case of Miss Martha Klein, a nurse, came before them. While the question is being unsuccessfully considered, Miss Klein has been allowed three days to settle up business affairs, after which she will be temporarily placed in the jail at Waukegan, Ill., to await the decision of her hearing. The young woman declared herself to be willing to undergo internment.

ADVANCE IN RAIL RATES TO BE CONSIDERED

New England Commission Is to Confer in Boston Next Tuesday

A conference of the Public Service Commissions of the six New England States will be held at the office of the Massachusetts commission at No. 1 Beacon street, beginning Tuesday at 10:30 a. m.

This conference has been called to consider the advance in railroad rates recently made under authority of the United States Railroad Administration, and to determine whether the State commissions of New England ought to unite in a protest to the Federal authorities against certain features of the new rates and in a request that specific changes be made.

OBJECT OF INCREASE.

The primary object of the increase was to make sure that the railroads under federal control would not impose a burden upon the treasury of the United States at a time when the government is spending billions for war purposes, and it was made with full knowledge that readjustments would be necessary or desirable after the new rates had gone into effect.

Many such readjustments have been made by the staff of the Director-General and many more are under consideration. The Interstate Commerce Commission also has powers of review.

Among others, the following questions will probably be considered at the conference: Whether the general level of the rates is higher than is reasonably necessary; in other words, whether they will produce substantially more revenue than will be needed to meet expenses and the rentals which the government must pay for the use of the properties; whether the double increase in class rates brought about by adding 25 per cent. to the increase approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission in April of this year is fair and reasonable.

NEW HAVEN FIRST.

As yet, the New Haven Railroad is the only one in the State which has made this double increase, but it is contemplated by all the roads.

Whether the horizontal increase of 25 per cent. will operate, in the case of joint rates to the South and West, to the disadvantage of New England industries; whether increases in the rates on coal or other special commodities are just and reasonable; whether the increases in milk rates are consistent with the public interest in the present emergency; whether the elimination is justifiable of certain differential rates which have heretofore existed, such as the differential via the Canadian lines to the West; whether the minimum rates prescribed are just and reasonable, and whether there are adjustments of the passenger rates which can reasonably be sought under present conditions.

Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock the conference will be opened to the public and an opportunity will be given to the representatives of commercial organizations or others to present their views.

WOMEN! MOTHERS! DAUGHTERS!

You who are easily aged and worn; nervous or ailing, who are subject to fits of melancholy or the "blues" get your blood examined for iron deficiency. Nuxated Iron taken three times a day after meals will increase your strength and endurance in two weeks' time in many cases.—Ferdinand King, M.D.

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron (sold by druggists under the name of Nuxated Iron) is not a secret remedy, but one which is known to the medical profession, and is prescribed by them every day. Ordinary Nuxated Iron is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make one constipated or cause disagreeable effects of any kind. Three times per day after meals.

FENNO GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE WIFE'S LIFE

Mrs. Allan B. Fenno, in a costume she wore in amateur theatricals, whose serious illness has caused concern in the fashionable Lenox colony. She is reported as showing improvement.

Lenox, July 10.—A transfusion of blood given by her husband has brought hopes for the recovery of Mrs. Allan Blanchard Fenno, formerly Miss Elizabeth Lenier Turnure, daughter of George Turnure, New York banker.

There is consequent rejoicing in the fashionable colony here.

Mrs. Fenno has been seriously ill.

The marriage was a romantic one. Fenno at the time, 1912, was organist of Trinity Church here at a salary of $1,200 a year. The banker's daughter sang in the choir.

Both were enthusiastic for outdoor sports and were expert in golf and tennis. They hold the local tennis doubles championship.

On a day when her parents were in New York the young man and the rich young girl—she was only nineteen then—were married.

TELEGRAPH USED TO AID SPIES, HINTS SMITH

Washington, July 10.—Defying the opposition, the Senate Interstate Commerce committee have again reported out the government telegraph and telephone ownership bill without granting hearings to anyone interested, except that President Carlton of the Western Union made a statement.

There is bitter criticism of the committee's action by many Senators but the majority of the committee holds fast to the argument that the bill should be hurried through the Senate, and that hearings were not necessary.

Senator Smith of South Carolina, chairman of the committee, made mysterious hints that the wires are being used to aid enemy spies.

"Suppose," he said, "a U-boat lurking along our coast should receive a message from an uncontrolled wire. I say 'suppose,' but it might happen.

"In a very short time there might come a development which would convince the country that taking over these lines is the best thing that has been done since the war began."

VOTE IS 7 TO 3.

The vote upon reporting out the bill was: For—Smith, Underwood, Saulsbury, Lewis, Poindexter, Thompson, Myers—7. Against—Gore, Pomerene, Kellogg—3. All of those voting are Democrats except Kellogg and Poindexter.

The committee heard President Carlton in the forenoon. There was an executive session later on, and Senator Underwood moved to close the hearings and report the bill. Senator Pomerene objected, moving that cabinet officers and individual telephone companies be heard. Senator Gore moved that the employes be heard. Both these motions were defeated, and the Underwood motion prevailed by the vote of 7 to 3.

Minority Senators in particular expressed themselves strenuously. One committee member who voted against Underwood resolution, called the action "high-handed and autocratic." He, like some others, voiced earnest disapproval of giving the control of the wires to an unnamed person.

"It will be Postmaster Burleson," he said, "and it means an extension of his present powers of censorship and espionage. It will be worse than ever."

One of the big fights made upon the bill will hinge upon the supposition that the Postmaster-General will be in command. Desperate efforts will be made to change the bill introduced by Senator Lewis of Illinois, so that a commission of present officials of the wire companies will form the control instead of a Cabinet "secretary of telegraph and telephone," as the Senator suggested.

Administration Senators hope the bill will get through this week, but opponents, such as Senator Cummins of Iowa, predict three weeks. Senator Smith said it "might take two weeks and it might pass before Friday night."

SEEK TO FORCE HEARINGS.

Senator Penrose is credited with an intention to try to recommit the bill again as that hearings will be forced. He secured recognition on the parliamentary point that half of a majority of the committee had not passed on the bill. But this was corrected when ten members attended the meeting.

A suggestion by Senator Smith again led to the deduction that the government wished to guard against spies.

"It might be only a few lines," he said, "leading into an enemy country. But it would be necessary to link up the lines in this country with those lines. The subsequent legislation would have to be modified after it was found what the President considers necessary for the war needs."

The Senator said he had not received any demand for hearings; in fact had received but two letters, one from President Carlton of the Western Union and the other from President Mackay of the Postal and both related to compensation.

Mr. Carlton told the committee in executive session that the threatened strike by telegraphers was "nothing more than a bugaboo." He said his employes were satisfied. Most of his time was taken up in explaining the technical aspects of his company, such as capitalization, physical valuation and bonded debt.

Washington, July 10.—President Wilson has sent the following telegram of condolences to the widow of the late Major John Purroy Mitchel, former mayor of New York City, who was killed when an army aeroplane he was flying at Gerstner Field, New Orleans, fell to the earth:

"Mrs. John Purroy Mitchel, New York City.

"May I not express to you my very deep and sincere sympathy? The tragical death of your husband has been a shock to the whole country and I am sure that I am speaking the feeling of the multitudes in thus expressing my personal feeling.

PRISONERS GIVE MITE TO HELP UNCLE SAM

Inmates of Bay State Institutions Show Real Brand of Patriotism

A bleak cell, iron bars and the prison stripe are no curb on patriotism.

Director of Prisons Edward C. Hagley today announced that the 3,700 prisoners confined at Charlestown have bought

$1,700 of War Savings Stamps.
$2,850 of Liberty Loan Bonds.

And made generous contributions to the Red Cross and Knights of Columbus War Funds and the Halifax Disaster Fund.

All this from the small pittances they receive from caning chairs and making trinkets.

The women at the Sherborn Reformatory bought $2,000 worth of yarn, converted it by their hands into socks and sweaters and gave them to the Red Cross.

They staged an opera, paid all expenses and gave the gross income, $1,100, to the French Orphans' Fund.

A life inmate at Sherborn offered for auction her hand-embroidered doll. It netted $1,050—and she gave that to the fund.

OLEOMARGARINE MEN ARE SENT TO PRISON

New York, July 10.—Frank W. Tillinghast, president, and Lenord W. Barber, manager of the Vermont Manufacturing Company, were sentenced to one year and one day each in the Atlanta penitentiary and to pay fines of $500 each. Samuel A. Penner, an employe, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment in the Essex (N. J.) County penitentiary. They pleaded guilty to conspiracy to defraud the government out of the tax on oleomargarine.

ARMY AND NAVY AMERICAN

DEMOCRACY — BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JULY 10, 1918. — LIBERTY

TO OPEN SCHOOL AT AYER FOR PRIVATES

By WILLIAM FLYNN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, July 10.—Sergeant William H. Sennott of 2281 Boston, a member of the 301st Infantry, who had been transferred to the machine gun company, has been discharged from the service because of physical inability, and before leaving camp announced that he would continue doing his bit by returning to his trade as a ship fitter, and would seek employment at the navy yard.

Sergeant Sennott has been here for the past nine months. He had been active in athletics as a boxer and basketball player, and had his shoulder bone broken four times and dislocated eleven. He was anxious to stay and accompany his associates overseas.

To have a sufficient number of noncommissioned officers to take charge of the 15,000 draftees soon to join the Depot brigade Major Ralph Lowell of the 11th training battalion has ordered the opening of a school of instruction for privates and two guard schools will be opened for privates and commissioned officers.

Many officers are arriving from other camps to become instructors in the new school.

A small arms firing school has also been opened for the instruction of commissioned officers and sessions are held morning and afternoon under the instruction of Captains W. Van Warren, William L. Fearing, F. N. Prescott and Paul A. Merriam.

Another Y. M. C. A. secretary has joined the army forces, the Rev. S. S. Robins of the First Parish Church, Kingston, having been appointed a chaplain and assigned to the depot brigade. Chaplain Robins had formerly been in Hut 27 at camp.

Lieutenant Fay S. Mathewson of Providence, former Y. M. C. A. track team champion and athletic instructor in the depot brigade, has been appointed camp athletic instructor and has moved to divisional headquarters. Lieutenant Mathewson was well known in Providence as a clerk in the Merchants National Bank and was the high point winner in athletics in that city last year.

He originated the plan of having 1,250 men in actual competition at one time in fifteen events in the Depot Brigade, and is one of the most popular officers in camp.

Daniels' Son Sworn in as Midshipman at Annapolis

Annapolis, Md., July 10.—Worth Bagley Daniels, son of Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, and a nephew of Ensign Worth Bagley, the first American naval officer to lose his life in the Spanish-American war, has been sworn in as a midshipman. The new class, of which he was the 689th member, will probably number about 1,000, and will be the largest ever sworn in at the Naval Academy.

Sergeant Pierson E. Conradt of the marine corps, a resident of Salem, Ore., another member of the class, was the first man from the marine corps to be named by Secretary Daniels under the law providing for the entrance each year of 100 enlisted men.

RECEIVING SHIP MEN LEARNING HOW TO SWIM

By S. HARRY FERRIS.

Aboard the Receiving Ship at Boston, July 10.—Great success is attending the teaching of the Sutherland swimming stroke to the men of the First Naval District. Some exceedingly good swimmers are being developed at the L-Street Bath, and it is hoped that before the season is over there will be few men on the ship who will not be able to demonstrate that they have complied with Admiral Wood's request that every sailor in the Navy shall know how to swim before he enters upon active service at sea.

The Sutherland stroke, which is now the official stroke of the whole Navy, was developed by the ship's swimming instructor. A description of it, furnished by Instructor Sutherland, should be of interest to all persons who swim:

"The position of the body in the water is flat with the left arm extended to just beyond the head, palm down, elbow slightly raised," says Mr. Sutherland. "The right arm is parallel with the body, with the thumb touching the hip. Draw the lifted clear of the water from the shoulder, elbow slightly bent, and describes the same movement as the left.

"The action is continuous and absolutely smooth, there being no time at which the body comes to rest and the momentum lost, as in the other strokes. The leg action should not be attempted until the arm action is absolutely mastered. It is better the legs be allowed to trail behind while the arm movement is being thoroughly assimilated.

EDITORIAL

The plan of the government to open officers' training schools for instruction in the infantry, field artillery and machine branches of the army fighting forces, and to admit men from civil life without any previous military training, is something that young men should consider and take advantage of.

The educational requirements are not more than should be expected, and any man between twenty years and eight months and forty years of age, with a high school education or its equal, is privileged to file an application.

While receiving training the candidate will be classed as a private, first class, and will receive $33 a month, and if graduated will receive a commission as second lieutenant.

Thirty-six hundred lieutenants are to be added to the service each year from the new schools to be formed, and the men receiving the commissions will have the same standing as those graduating from West Point, Plattsburg or any of the other training schools. Applications should be made to the professor in military tactics at the post nearest the residence of the applicant, and every leading college in the country will be open for registration.

THANKS CITIZENS WHO LOANED SAILORS AUTOS

The Boston War Camp Community Service wishes to extend the thanks of the organization to the public-spirited individuals loaning their cars to take 1,000 sailors to Camp Devens on Saturday, July 6.

In the letter sent to the automobile owners, Rufus D. Smith, executive secretary, writes:

"I do not believe there are many cities where so many cars would have been available on such a rainy day, and I am sure that the trip, starting as it did in a driving rain, shows the true spirit of helpfulness of which Boston should be proud."

LOUISVILLE ATTORNEY TO LECTURE AT CAMPS

Under the supervision of the Jewish Welfare Board, Alfred Selligman, a well-known attorney of Louisville, Ky., will deliver a series of lectures to the soldiers and sailors at the posts in and around Boston. "The peace we are fighting for," is Mr. Selligman's theme.

Following Mr. Selligman, Dr. Leon Harrison will cover the Greater Boston district under the same auspices, and on August 4 Rabbi Leon M. Franklin will be here to address the boys in the forts and naval training stations.

WOMAN CENSOR DECLARES SHE DID NOT RESIGN

Although Mayor Charles M. Blodgett of Malden declares that he has received the resignation of Mrs. W. C. Tilson as a member of the Malden Board of Censors, Mrs. Tilson denies, with equal emphasis, having resigned.

The Mayor searched through his papers in an effort to find a copy of the resignation which he declares he received and which Mrs. Tilson declares was never written or sent to him.

SCHOOL JANITORS DISCUSS COAL-SAVING METHODS

Worcester, July 10.—The 14th annual convention of the Massachusetts Public School Janitors' Association ended today. Among the matters discussed was the coal situation and methods of reducing the coal consumption in public schools. The janitors enjoyed a chicken dinner at Lake Quinsigamond where Mayor Fehr G. Holmes and officials of the school committee addressed them.

CHICAGO TO BECOME AGRICULTURAL DISTRICT

Chicago, July 10.—Chicago promises to become a great agricultural district wherein the bean will vie with the tomato and the onion will seek to beat the squash for place in the war garden handicap. According to declarations made by J. H. Frost of the State Council of Defence, the city will produce this season more than $3,000,000 worth of garden truck on vacant lots.

How John McCormack is doing his bit

TWENTY-FIVE thousand dollars for one concert! A hundred thousand dollars for one song!

Big figures—but no bigger than the big heart of this much-loved Irish singer.

Read the story of the wonderful ways in which John McCormack is helping to win the war. It reveals an entirely new side of the world-famous singer.

Feel for yourself something of the throb that fathers, mothers, sweethearts, feel when this golden-voiced tenor sings.

From New York to California and back again, John McCormack has been singing his way for the Red Cross, for the Knights of Columbus, for the soldiers and the sailors and for their families. The whole wonderful story is told in Pictorial Review for August.

Don't miss Dorothy Canfield's appealing story of the little Kansas girl who gave her all to go to France.

A little sallow-faced, homely thing—what brought her from a small town in Kansas to France? She went alone to do her simple bit.

Read "A Little Kansas Leaven." It will touch you and bring home to you an entirely new sense of the help that even the humblest of us can give.

This story of the Great War is a true story, based on actual facts. It has brought the tears to the eyes of everyone who has read it.

BIG LEAGUE SPLIT SEEN BY TENER

Through Dealing With Johnson, and Will Quit Commission if Mack Keeps Perry

New York, July 10.—A split in organized baseball is considered imminent.

John K. Tener, president of the National League and a member of the National Commission, has sent out the word that unless the Philadelphia (American League) club abides by the decision of the commission in the Scott Perry case, he will resign his seat.

Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, on the other hand, gave out a statement that he intended to keep the young pitcher, in spite of the National Commission, or anything that Tener has to say about his action.

Tener, in his statement, went further and said that unless the decision of the commission was upheld he would no longer have anything to do with cases referred to it which involved the American League in any way.

President Ban Johnson of the American League was frankly admitted that he fought for the Athletics in the session of the commission which awarded Perry to the Boston Nationals.

In a letter addressed by President Tener to the club presidents of the senior league, Tener makes known the fact that after the verdict of the commission was made known the American League advised the commission "that under no circumstances or conditions will Perry be turned over to the Boston (National League) club."

In an interview given in Philadelphia Tener says that the action of the American League is a veritable declaration of war.

He says the National agreement has been broken by the junior league and that he cannot in justice to himself remain a member of the National Commission.

Three Favor Braves; Two Vote for Macks in Scott Perry Case

The decision of the National Commission in the Scott Perry case was announced in Cincinnati on June 12.

Because a minor league was involved two additional representatives sat in judgment upon the case. The personnel of the commission consisted of Chairman Garry Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati National League club; President Tener of the National League; B. B. Johnson, president of the American League; J. H. Farrell, secretary of the National Association, and R. H. Bough, president of the Southern Association.

The evidence submitted, and upon which Herrmann, Tener and Farrell awarded the services of Perry to the Boston Nationals, while Johnson and Bough did not concur, showed according to the commission report:

That Perry was sold to the Boston Nationals by the Atlanta Club of the Southern Association under an optional agreement for $2,000. Perry deserted the Boston club in June, 1917, after the latter organization had paid $500 of the purchase price. Boston was assured its rights to the player would be protected if Perry ever returned to organized baseball. Early in the present season the pitcher returned to the Atlanta club and was sold to the Philadelphia Americans and is playing with that club.

When the decision of the National Commission was made public Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, obtained a court injunction at Cleveland, on June 17, preventing the Boston Nationals from interfering with the activities of Perry until the case should come up for court judgment.

No War Is Feared by Ban Johnson, Who Is Expecting Tener to Bow Out of Game

Chicago, July 10.—To hear B. B. Johnson, president of the American League, talk, John K. Tener is going to step down and out from the head of the National League, in addition to resigning from the National Commission.

"Morally and technically, Connie Mack is justified in the position he has taken in the Perry case," states Johnson.

Big Ben does not fear any baseball war in the event Tener makes good his threat and retires from the commission.

A. A. U. URGED TO GIVE THRIFT STAMPS AS PRIZES

Philadelphia, July 10.—At the weekly meeting of the Registration Committee of the Middle Atlantic Association of the A. A. U. it was decided to petition the national body to amend the constitution so that during the period of the war instead of prizes being donated war and thrift stamps should be offered at the various meets.

Corbett's Corner

This is the second of a series of articles which Mr. Corbett is writing concerning the career of the late Stanley Ketchel, one of the most marvelous ring warriors of all time. The next instalment will appear tomorrow.

By JAMES J. CORBETT.

Stanley Ketchel was born in Grand Rapids, Mich., September 14, 1887, of Polish parents. From earliest boyhood he had a fondness for fisticuffs and it was but natural when he was well along in his teens that his ambitions should turn toward the prize ring.

The fearlessness of Ketchel, his startling ability to stand up under all kinds of battering, and his superior strength were his early assets.

To these, as time went on, he added boxing knowledge, and by the time he became recognized as champion of the middleweights he had become a very clever ringman.

Yet Ketchel usually discarded his knowledge of the scientific end of the game to resort to the slambang, rushing tactics that had brought fame and fortune to such men as John L. Sullivan, Terry McGovern, battling Nelson and others.

"Punches won't hurt me," Ketchel used to say, "so what's the use of wasting my time trying to guard against them. All I want is a good smash at the other fellow's jaw. And the best way to get it is to drive him around furiously until he is forced to lower his guard."

Ketchel fought his first professional fight in 1903—when he was only fifteen years old. Kid Tracey was his opponent and in the very first round the kid's jaw ran afoul of one of Stanley's swings—and the slow was over.

Mose La Fontise was the next to try conclusions with the fifteen-year-old youngster who soon was to set the pugilistic world aflame by his flashing performances.

LaFontise was an experienced ringman, older and heavier than Ketchel, and the bout was a furious affair for twenty rounds.

Then LaFontise, wearied in his efforts to batter Ketchel into dreamland and wobbly, too, from the terrible blows his kid opponent had delivered against his face and body, slowed up and Ketchel battered him into a state of coma in the twenty-fourth round.

KING BADER MAY SHINE TODAY FOR SOX

Barrow Anxious to Take Final Game of Series From Fighting Cleveland Team

By H. W. LENIGAN.

Admitting that Ed Barrow's first string of box artists is pretty well used up as a result of the four busy battles with the Fohls, each one decided by a single tally and two forced into extra innings for settlement, His Honor had no misgivings over the outcome of this afternoon's combat, the final one of the set.

King Bader was Barrow's first pick for slab duty. Two-Pair has not won a game since redonning his Sox trappings, but he showed flashes of quite tidy form on the recent disastrous visit to New York, Washington and Philadelphia, and Big Ed was confident he would subdue Speaker, Wood & Co.

Molyneaux, former Villa Nova hurler and let out by both St. Louis clubs the past Spring, being unceremoniously bounced by Jack Hendricks and Fielder Jones without receiving anything like a fair trial, he claims, has been warming up the past several afternoons and is due for an early appearance on the hillock. And today may be the day.

Tomorrow the Chisox, 1917 champions of this well-known universe, begin a four-days' stand at the Fenway. They are coming sans Joe Jackson, Happy Felsch, Red Faber, Lefty Williams and Byrd Lynn, and are now anything but a warm member.

The Rowland entrant is cantering along just under the .500 notch, and ought to be fairly easy plucking for our gamesters.

All's well. The Red Sox have a lead of approximately a game and a half on the Yankees, who he has dislodged the Fohls for runner-up honors.

BIG BOXING CARNIVAL TO HELP BOYS ACROSS

Providence, July 10.—Governor Beeckman has arranged to welcome the half-hundred boxers who have donated their services at a war-fund boxing carnival to be held at the National Athletic Club, Marieville, tomorrow night, at the State House during the noon auto parade, headed by the Boy Scouts Band.

Everything in connection with the carnival has been donated and a goodly sum is looked for, which will be divided between the Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus and Tobacco Fund.

North Randall, O., July 10.—Hal Boy McMahon, won the 2:04 pace in three straight heats, with Peter G. second and Little Hatice third. The best time was 2:06¼.

Mamie Locke (Valentine) took the sweepstakes for three-year-old trotters; Selah Baird (Murphy) annexed the 2:20 trot, and Margaret Margrave (Palin) landed the 2:10 pace.

THREE SPEEDY PACERS MEET AT WILLIMANSETT

Holyoke, July 10.—The 2:10 pace was the feature of today's Short Ship Circuit card at Willimansett. Edward P., winner in the same class at Windsor, Ct., last week; Baron Alta, and May Bird were the principal starters in the event. The 2:21 and 2:25 trots completete today's program. Racing will be continued tomorrow and Saturday.

TOMMY CLARKE PICKED UP BY FRED MITCHELL

Chicago, July 10.—Tommy Clarke, former Cincinnati catcher, who was with the New York Yankees for a short while early in the season, has signed with the Cubs. Manager Mitchell fears that Bill Killifer will enter the service at an early date and figures Clarke the proper receiver to succeed Grover Alexander's old battery mate.

BIG FOUR HOOKS UP AT BEACH SAUCER TONIGHT

Wiley, Madonna, Suter and Carman, big four of the motor-pace colony, come together in the Rich Brassard event at the Revere track tonight. The race promises to prove one of the big hits of the season.

Manager Nat Butler has signed Frank Kramer, champion of champions, to meet Verri, Italian sprint champion, in a match race Saturday night.

TRAVERS AND NICHOLLS CLASH HERE SATURDAY

Jerome D. Travers, four-time National amateur golf champion, and Gilbert Nicholls, noted professional, meet at the Merrimack Valley C. C. Saturday afternoon, in a match for the benefit of the Red Cross.

Terry Brooks Stops Johnny Martin at Armory A. A.

By RINGSIDE.

Terry Brooks, West End welterweight, remained on his winning streak by stoping Johnny Martin of New York in six rounds in the wind-up event on the all-star bill at the Arena.

A short right jolt sent Martin down for the count just as the sixth frame ended. That was enough for Johnny and he wisely refrained from going back for any additional punishment.

Larry Burns of South Boston and Walter Butler of Revere went ten hard rounds to a draw. At times their work was cyclonic.

Barney Adair of New York won from Shaver O'Brien of South Boston in the third ten-rounder.

Shaver was floored for the count in the seventh, but pluckily came back and finished in good shape. Bob Josephs defeated Willie Jones in the six-round curtain-raiser.

Eddie Shevlin of Roxbury vs. Jack Britton of New York, in the feature bout next Tuesday night.

RUDOLPH DOWN TO TWIRL IN CUB OPENER

Chicago, July 10.—Losing three out of four in Pittsburgh, the draft-riddled Braves were scheduled to begin a four-game series with Fred Mitchell's Cubs, leaders in the National League race, on the North Side lawn this afternoon.

Rudolph was Manager Stalling's slab selection, while it was Hippo Vaughn's turn to twirl for the residents.

Southpaw Cooper, Hugo Bezdek's "ace," was too much for the Boston outfit in the getaway game in Pittsburgh.

He was steady most of the way, while Fillingim was peppered in several pinches, and the Pirates made connections, 7-2.

Rusk Herzog, who missed yesterday's game, being on the sick list, planned redonning his spangles.

Are You Keeping Up With the Siamese Socks Lessons?

This Day in Our History

THIS is the anniversary of the defeat of General Braddock by the Indians and French. It was in this defeat that George Washington saw his first real battle and was so often shot at and missed by the redskins that they swore he bore a charmed life.

UPSTAIRS Miss Van Doren was staring at her roommate superciliously. "Annette, you have as much backbone as a dead jellyfish! The idea of inviting that impossible girl. My dear, if we encourage her she'll bring her friends to the school and absolutely destroy the tone of the place. What would your cousin Harry say?"

Annette flushed. Gertrude's reproaches were hard to bear, but Harry Twombly, twenty-one and Yale senior, was his cousin's ideal. His scorn would be unbearable.

"Harry will be home for his spring vacation next week. Yale gets its two weeks later than we do. I think he's coming up here. Grandfather's opening the old place early. Do you think he would think I was plebeian for being pleasant to the Madden girl? Oh, Gertrude, you won't tell him if he comes to see us, will you?"

"I'll certainly tell him unless you inform that impossible girl that she is not to come tonight."

"But I can't do that, Gertrude."

"Oh, yes, you can. You write her a little note and tell her that the spread's called off because your box didn't arrive from home, and your roommate has a sick headache, anyway, and besides Mrs. De Pul doesn't approve of spreads, and your room wouldn't hold so many, anyhow."

"I couldn't—she'll see the other girls coming," quavered Annette.

Gertrude rose haughtily from her position on the window seat and eight cushions. "I'll write her the note. We simply cannot have such canaille in our homes."

Gertrude Van Dorn fancied that she resembled Marie Antoinette, and she had a way of assuming what she also fancied were that by-gone lady's most aristocratic mannerisms.

The Party Called Off

A half hour later a little note was shoved under Miss Cecilia's door. She opened it in breathless excitement. It was signed, "Annette Twombly." Cecilia's eyes gleamed with joy. They were friends—Annette was writing to her! Then she read the note. It was couched in Gertrude's curtest and most formal words and it informed poor little Cecilia that because of her roommate's grave indisposition the party for that evening was unavoidably and indefinitely postponed.

Cecilia understood. Her face went white and she put her hands to her heart. "Oh, mother, dear mother, can you comfort me now? It hurts—it hurts more than you ever guessed to be a lady. If you'd known, you would not have asked me to learn!"

Young Harry Twombly would somewhat have preferred spending his vacation in New York to disposing of it "up the Hudson" near quiet Poughkeepsie; but he adored his grandfather, and even the boredom of long days in a remote little town where nothing ever happened was better than hurling the old gentleman.

Harry Twombly had the quiet of those days interrupted rather abruptly by a slim, blue-eyed girl, with hair like a pale flame, who burst upon his vision carrying in her arms a limp and dejected little puppy, which showed signs of becoming remarkably ill.

"I say! Doggie looks as if he thought he was on an ocean voyage. Put him down quickly. I think he needs some motherailin!" cried a voice that was deep and laughing and yet not laughing at her at all.

An Exciting Moment

Cecilia Evangeline Agnes Madden put the dog down and looked up. She saw a splendidly built young chap some four or five years her senior. He had a clear skin of pale olive, and brown eyes that were tender and impudent, set in a face of well-chiseled features that escaped being merely good looking in order to be strong and independent.

His cap was in his hand, and Cecilia's eyes fairly burned with excitement on beholding how smooth and close cut his burnished and wavy a boy's hair could be. It was wonderful and brown and you wanted to put your fingers in it and muss it up, just exactly as you wanted to put you fingers in Johnny's hair and smooth it down.

This entire series of reflections flashed across Cecilia's brain in a little less time than a watch disposes of one tick.

"What are you going to do with that sad little puppy?" demanded the young fellow.

"I thought its poor little paw was mashed. I didn't know whether I'd better take it to school and have Mrs. De Pul sent for a doctor or take it to the drug store and have her sending around town for me if I was gone longer than the two hours we are allowed for a walk."

"I think they can give it first aid at the drug store. We'll take it there, and then if we trespass on the forbidden third hour I'll go out to school with you and explain. You're a tender hearted little kid, aren't you?"

A Pleasant Sensation

Tale patronized the De Pul school in quite friendly fashion—confensively and with complete amiability.

Cecilia adored being patronized—though she did not know that that was what this magnificent young man was doing. Never in the movies had she seen a handsomer hero. Even the magazines did not portray any one more completely to her liking than this young fellow, whose clothes fitted him as perfectly and who seemed so unconscious of his clothes.

"If I looked like that, I'd walk around with a looking glass a foot square. Hold out in front of me," thought Cecilia to herself.

How to Knit Two Socks at One Time---Lesson No. 3

A Brand New Thrill for War Knitters Explained by Mrs. Evans Sewall of Washington. It Saves Time and Is More Accurate

Just to show the doubting one that there are really two socks, and that the heels have been turned at the same time, here is a picture (above) of the two socks after the heels have been turned. One is the exact replica of the other. This is one of the advantages of knitting the socks at the same time—the socks are more accurate. The needles are kept at the same tension all the time. There is not one particle of difference in the size of the socks. There is none of that harrowing measuring to do to get the socks exactly the same size.

This picture shows the proper position for the hands in purling the forward stitch. The two threads must be kept separate. The threads are never dropped. The picture shows the hands holding the thread that will be knitted in the next position and the active purling of the front thread with the same hand. A great deal of the efficiency of the knitting depends on securing this position, and the threads MUST be kept separate. The hands are shown here doing the forward purling stitch in the continential way of knitting. The American method of knitting can easily be worked out also. Each knitter soon devises the most efficient way for holding her own peculiar knitting.

A SERIAL OF EAST AND WEST

CHAPTER XIII.

Copyright, 1918, by the Star Company.

ELIZABETH WADE changed the subject abruptly.

"Let us get the water lilies now," she said.

John Butler took the oars and rowed on up the little lake until he reached the cove where the great lilies with gold hearts lay among their sleek green pads.

"Let me pull them for you," he suggested.

But Elizabeth shook her head. "No, I like to gather them myself," she insisted, leaning out of the stern to grip the long stems far under the water.

Butler held the boat firm with the oars while she gathered the blossoms. He noticed how graceful she was. She had rolled up her sleeves, and her arms were very white, her slender wrists perfectly rounded. She wore no hat, and the sunlight filtering through the trees struck golden glints from her abundant hair.

She certainly looked every inch a thoroughbred, the man mused. She was a cousin of plain Martha Chaplin, yet surely no princess of the blood could appear more patrician. Yes, he had been right when he had decided that she was the equal of his sister, although Alicia had had advantages and an environment of which this girl could know nothing.

"What are you thinking about?" Elizabeth demanded, with a suddenness that made him start.

He had been so immersed in his own thoughts that he had not seen that she had ceased gathering lilies and was looking at him. Fortunately, he could reply with partial truthfulness.

"I was thinking about my sister."

"I did not know you had a sister," Elizabeth remarked. Then she blushed as she recalled that she was supposed not to know anything about this man. "I mean," she amended, "I have heard you speak of your mother, but not of your sister."

An Alarming Hint

Butler laughed at her flushed face. "You need not look so embarrassed at knowing nothing of a person whom I have never mentioned to you," he teased. "She is my only sister. She has just finished college and is spending the Summer out in Riverhill. The place bored me to extinction, but mother writes that Alicia is very happy there."

"Are there many pleasant people in Riverhill?" the girl interrogated.

It amused her to hear this man talk of the Western town, absolutely unaware that she had any relatives in that locality, or knew anything of it.

"Well," Butler smiled, "from what mother writes, I fancy that my sister is so well satisfied with the attentions of one person there—or he has shown himself to be so much attracted by her—that she has not had much chance to become acquainted with the other young people in the neighborhood. Yet, of course, she has been invited to the various houses at which she has met Wade."

"Wade!" The exclamation escaped Elizabeth involuntarily. "Wade, did you say?"

The man looked disconcerted. "I did not mean to let the name slip! That was hardly an honorable thing to do, was it? Yet, as you do not know my sister, and as there is nothing really tangible in the way of an affair between Dr. Wade and her, perhaps it was not very indiscreet of me to say what I did. All mother wrote was that the young doctor was apparently much attracted to Alicia and that the attraction appeared to be mutual. That may mean next to nothing, you know."

He was speaking slowly, gazing, puzzled, into the face of his companion.

He remembered that this girl knew Douglas Wade—at least she had told him that she had seen Wade on the farm in days gone by.

"When I spoke I forgot that you knew Wade," he said tentatively.

"I used to see him quite often years ago," she evaded.

Continued Tomorrow.

IN a series of four illustrated lessons, Mrs. Evans Sewall, last Winter in charge of the Red Cross knitting rooms in Washington, D. C., explains how to knit two socks at once. The third lesson appears today. Do not fail to get the last one tomorrow.

By Marie Dunbar.

ONE of the principal things is to hold your thread properly. This is usually worked out by every knitter in her own way. The thing to remember is that a needle is always between the two threads. The threads must be kept apart to facilitate the knitting. Mrs. Sewall has worked out a unique way to accomplish this feature of the knitting—she wears a ring on her middle finger while knitting and in this way is able to keep the threads apart—one thread remaining on one side of the needle and the other held in place on the other side.

Then you gasp, "Why, that is easy, but what do I do when I come to the heel? How can I turn it? And how can I finish off the toe?" Very simple; you simply follow the Red Cross directions, only you double the number of stitches which are given in the directions. Should it say have fourteen stitches on a needle—you must have twenty-eight on your needle as you are knitting double. You are really knitting a pair of socks on half the number of needles formerly used. Six needles are customarily used in knitting and now you are using three.

Mrs. Sewall says that when the toe is done the needles are slipped out and each sock is then returned to the former needles and finished off as would be done if the socks had been knitted separately.

Women in War Work

By Elizabeth Ellam,

Special Agent, United States Employment Service, Department of Labor.

Dear Miss Ellam—I am a widow with no encumbrances of any kind, am fifty years of age and a business woman of many years experience. I have managed business in dry goods and with my husband before his death conducted a wholesale and retail bakery, tea rooms and confectionery store. I understand the employment and management of hired help and I am also competent to keep books, using both single and double entry system.

For the past ten years I have turned my home into a gentleman's rooming house. I can nurse better among men than a younger woman. I am active and in perfect health, but as long as there is a ruling that only graduate nurses may be admitted to the Red Cross I feel that there is little use in my seeking nursing.

If the United States government wants me at any time to fill a position where real skill and good work, neatness as regards both surroundings and personal appearance counts, I stand ready at any time to qualify.

MRS. E. S. Y.

Newport.

AM publishing the above letter in the hope that some organization may see it and appreciate the opportunity of securing a valuable woman for some form of relief work across the seas.

Such a woman would be most valuable in canteen service of the Y. M. C. A., where business ability, tact and general motherliness are needed so much more than dimples and curls; where the ability to soothe and pet a tired lad counts more than fluffiness and ruffles, and a baby stare. Some of the stories that are coming back of "relief workers" who have no regard for rules or discipline, and who regard their stay in France as a "sightseeing tour" are disheartening to the women who have boys "over there."

This woman too, might be of indirect service if she opened a tiny cake-shop or bakery, just off any canton-

RHEUMATISM AND GOUT are often intimately related; the symptoms of one disease often resemble those of the other. While the Doctor is interested in determining which disease is actually present, the sufferer from pain, swollen joints and other annoying symptoms demands relief from suffering.

ment. Her business ability and her aptness in caring for the men who came to her really might be more far reaching than in any organized work of the government.

She states emphatically that she means business, and does not want to run around the country on "wild goose chases." Then let her go to the Y. W. C. A. War Work Council, either in the Little Building in Boston or at similar headquarters in Providence, and outline her qualifications. There may be a post in a hostess house where she would find permanent work.

Let her communicate with Mrs. George H. Fearing, Jr., at the Y. M. C. A. headquarters, in the same building, for canteen work of the Y. M. C. A. The age limit is forty-five years, but in a case of particular efficiency, it has been known to be stretched either way.

It is to be regretted that such material should be allowed to slip through the fingers of those really in need when there is such a call for women with common sense, ability and poise. There are so many women who are anxious and financially able to go and who have no ability, that it seems a real pity to see one who is so well qualified, failing to secure the right opportunity.

Dear Miss Ellam:

I am interested in your appeal for women milkers. I am sure that I can qualify, having lived in the country and had experience both in farm work and in milking as well. Will you give me the correct address, as to where to apply for this work at once? I wish to be one of the first workers—to be sure to get it.

WRINKLES DO SPEAK

Do You Study Faces? They Show Whether the Owners Are Absorbed in Themselves

By Cynthia Jackson

IF you are interested in reading faces, and it seems to me they are much more interesting than the average book you pick up, I wonder what you make of a face that is all broken up into little fine lines running vertically and horizontally and crisscross and every other way. No one line is allowed to pursue the even tenor of its way very long, for another line collides with it, and the resultant of the two lines starts off in a new direction.

Well, met one of these crisscross faces the other day, and the first question I asked was, "And how are you?"—not that I was especially anxious to know, but my idea of being sociable is to ask the question which is of paramount importance to the other person.

And this question lights up this dried parchment face in the same way that a lamp lights up a wrinkled piece of wrapping paper when it is moved behind it. It brings out all the wrinkles and the lines in strong relief. And indeed that is exactly the ignoble use to which this woman has put the only face she will ever have—she uses it as a bundle of small woes and disappointments and ailments.

Her face becomes fairly animated and lively, just like an orator's, when she is discoursing upon her own petty troubles, but if any other subject is introduced this light flickers and goes out, and she becomes white and pasty looking as if she were getting ready to pass into another world.

Now, there are honorable wrinkles, just as there are honorable scars. One of the most popular men I have ever known is the principal of a young men's preparatory school. "The boys fairly idolize him," is the rather unusual reputation he enjoys, considering he is engaged in the unpopular occupation of hammering Latin and Greek verbs into young brains already filled with baseball and football and other like interests.

I believe he is what would be called a handsome man, but, of course, it would take more than that to make him popular with a class of boys. His face is young and boyish and unlined, with the exception of one very prominent, very deep wrinkle which amounts almost to a depression cut straight through his forehead, almost as if a river had cut its way through solid rock.

You couldn't see him without seeing that wrinkle, and, having seen it, you couldn't rest until you knew what convulsion of circumstances was responsible for its being there. And when you knew, you had the same respect for him that you have for an oak that is standing tall and straight, not because the storms weren't violent and did their level best to bring him to the ground, but because he was an oak.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

PATRIOTIC SONG CONTEST IS UNLIMITED

All Entries in American Competition Must Be in by January 1

Rules Governing the American's Song Contest

What is the time limit for submitting copy?
January 1, 1919

May one person or collaborators submit more than one song?
Yes.

May lyrics and music be submitted separately or must songs be complete?
Songs should be complete.

When will the decision be be rendered?
As soon after January 1 as possible.

Who owns the copyright on the song?
The writer, except for right of publishing in Hearst papers.

Will songs already published be accepted, if so, what is their age limit?
No songs already published.

Composition of committee who will pass on songs to be published.
Committee in process of formation.

Interest in the patriotic song contest of the Hearst newspapers has reached the stage where hundreds of questions are being asked by those most interested in the competition. The tenor of the queries shows that while patriotism is paramount with most of the people interested, there are many who want to be sure they will receive proper credit if they should happen to earn the popular award of one of the prizes.

For the benefit of the many inquirers, it should be understood that a person may write one or more songs if he chooses and may write a song and then collaborate with others for another song. Many competitors undoubtedly will attempt to better their first efforts after sending in a song. A second try will in no wise mitigate against the chances of a competitor.

All copies submitted must be received by January 1, 1919.

Some competitors have been under a misapprehension, believing an early submission of a song will enhance their chances. This is erroneous. The last song to be received, if in time, is liable to take the first prize.

RETAINS HIS RIGHTS.

Copyright also plays a large part with some of the prospective song writers. Many of them wish to be certain they are not selling their rights when they send in a song. The writer retains all of his rights, except that he gives the Hearst publications the right to print the song in the Hearst papers.

Many queries have been received as to whether a competitor can use the music of some old and popular song and write the words for a new song to it. Likewise some inquirers wish to know whether they can send in the music alone and later send in the words to the song. The rules provide that the song must be a new one and that it must be complete as to music and lyrics when received.

COMMITEE TO BE PICKED.

Naturally some of the competitors wish to know who is to judge of their efforts and to select the prize winners. The selection of a committee is now in process. When that committee has been finally determined upon and has accepted the invitation to judge the songs, it will be of a character which will defy criticism. The best men possible to secure will compose the committee.

Millions of readers of the Hearst publications will in reality be the judges of the competition. Millions of readers will play the songs in their homes and then cast votes. Their verdict, naturally a popular one, will be the test of the ability of the competitors.

Songs should be sent to The Song Editor, Boston AMERICAN, No. 84 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

START LESSONS IN FRENCH SUNDAY

If your Hun-killing proclivities should suddenly find you in Paris or Bordeaux or Brest and your inner telegraphic system informed you that it was time to eat, would you know—

How to ask your way to the nearest restaurant?

How to order from a foreign bill-of-fare while a "garcon" of strictly Parisian make-up stood by with an order-book and made several excellent suggestions all of which were couched in the good old French language?

Ten to one you would go hungry.

Yet a dilemma like the foregoing will hardly be excusable in the future, for every one will be given an opportunity to learn French in twenty clear, simple, non-technical lessons so arranged and presented that the very study of them will be pleasurable and afford all sorts of fun.

The lessons will begin in the ADVERTISER and AMERICAN next Sunday and will continue for twenty Sundays thereafter. Everybody will want to "parles-vous" and to "parlez-francais beaucoup" will be THE thing, even if you are among the patriots whose bit will be done at home.

"N'oubliez pas!" The first lesson will appear next Sunday. Be sure you get your copy!

What Bonds Are Safe for Investment

The Boston AMERICAN presents the sixth of a series of articles designed to show how to invest money safely. The articles are written by a practical business man from a practical business man's standpoint. They are set forth with particular reference to the average investor, not the experienced man of finance, but the ordinary, everyday wage earner who seeks information on basic matters of investment. The series is offered as a set of simple answers to the question: "How can I best make my money go to work for me?"

By ROBERT S. WEEKS,
Of Harris, Forbes & Company, Boston.

Conservative investment bankers have come to the conclusion that bonds embody the most important characteristics of an ideal investment in a high degree and, therefore, deal in and recommend to their clients the following classes of securities:

(1) Government and municipal bonds.
(2) Railroad bonds.
(3) Public service corporation bonds.

GOVERNMENT BONDS.

People have become very well informed as to what is meant by government bonds through the several issues of Liberty bonds. Briefly, a United States Government bond is the promise to pay of the United States Government backed by all the wealth and power of the United States. It is the highest form of safe investment.

MUNICIPAL BONDS.

Broadly speaking, these are the promises-to-pay of States, counties, towns, cities, school and drainage districts and such other corporate bodies as have the power of general taxation to provide for the principal and interest of the bonds. Such bonds are issued for the purpose of payment for some public work or improvement, such as school or other buildings, water departments, drainage and water systems, roads, parks, sewers, etc. Back of municipal bonds as security are the credit of the community and its power to levy taxes on all the taxable property within the municipality to meet the bond obligations. The record of such bonds is so uniformly good that they are referred to as "next to government bonds." The interest of municipal bonds may vary according to the purpose for which the bonds are issued. Thus a county may issue "courthouse 4 per cent bonds," which would indicate that the bonds were issued for the purpose of constructing a courthouse and that they bear 4 per cent. interest.

There are several other classes of bonds issued by bodies more or less governmental in character which have been termed municipal bonds, but which may not have the chief requirements of municipal bonds. Special assessment bonds and many irrigation bonds are of this character. Such bonds are paid from special assessments or special taxes and not from general taxes on all property. Bonds of such character must be investigated with unusual care. It is also important that the investor be assured of the integrity of the bodies offering such bonds to obtain special taxes. The test for a municipal bond is to ascertain whether or not it is primarily payable from taxes on ALL the taxable property within the municipality whose name it bears.

MAN-EATING SHARK CAUGHT BY FISHERMEN

Egg Harbor, N. J., July 10.—While net fishing in the bay, Charles Cavrier and C. A. Sams of Lower Bank landed a man-eating shark. It is nine feet long and weighs more than 400 pounds. A struggle followed and the big fish destroyed the nets before it finally was killed with an ax.

FRANCE PATTERN FOR AMERICA TO COPY

By FRANCIS H. BISSON,
Vice-President Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

America may well look to France for example and inspiration in preparing to develop her foreign trade after the war. In all history there is no people whose rising to meet a seemingly overwhelming assault on everything they consider worth while has had such a power over the emotions of mankind. There has been a complete surrender of the nation as a whole to the idea that every available agency should be utilized for the single purpose of winning the war. France has sustained every shock of war. Some of the fairest portions of her territory have been overrun and others are useless except for military operations.

Now, with characteristic adjustability, the French are confronting emergency into opportunity. In all their preparations for reconstruction when peace comes they are applying the vitalizing force of thrift at the foundation of their efficiency in the war. Their program is to be modified for a considerable period after the war is over that spirit of unity, cooperation and concentration in enterprise that has kept them from vassalage since the war began. And the determination to eliminate Germany from future economic relationships is well illustrated in the policy regarding the future of the chemical industry. The French intend from now on to develop to the limit that production of raw materials for use in the manufacture of chemicals for which necessity of war has proved their capacity, and to increase greatly the number of their factories engaged in the manufacture of chemicals. New companies have been organized and capitalizations have been increased since the war began, and special schools are graduating chemists.

In preparation to meet German commercial competition after the war the French are trying more nearly by the medium of great fairs, like those at Lyons, to acquaint all the world with the excellence of their wares and also to learn from the exhibits of others where French importers may look for their requirements.

France has certain elements of strength upon which she is relying to restore her former prosperity. She has a splendid climate, a rich and well cultivated soil and thrifty population. With her coal and iron mines, the scene of such fierce fighting, almost flat and pile her skill in the manufacture of leather, hosiery, cotton goods, glassware and silk goods, her future is exceptionally bright.

Evening Mail Scandal Exposes Hypocrisy of Plutocratic Press

The New York Mail has shared with the New York Tribune the leadership of those Republican plutocratic newspaper organs which have so viciously and so untruthfully attacked the Democratic Administration at Washington and have hesitated at no falsehood, no misrepresentation and no misquotation in the effort to injure loyal supporters of the Administration like the Hearst papers by the outrageous and supremely insulting charge of pro-Germanism.

And now what a shock it is to learn that the ostensible owner and editor of the Mail has been jailed on a charge of perjury, and that the perjury that he is charged with consists in having falsely sworn that the Mail had been purchased with American money and was owned by American citizens, when, in fact, the ostensible owner of the Mail got the money TO BUY THE MAIL FROM the German Government—got the money exactly as Bolo Pasha got the money with which to buy French papers, and had the money transferred to him by German agents with the same shuffling of checks and accounts through different banks and fictitious payees which were employed by Bolo through the House of Morgan and other banks to deceive French Government officials and American publishers.

This Republican and plutocratic organ, bought with money secretly provided by German Government agents, ran neck and neck with the New York Tribune and other Republican plutocratic organs to assail two objects of Republican and plutocratic hatred—the Democratic National Administration and loyal supporters of the Democratic National Administration like the Hearst papers.

The attacks upon the President took the form of decrying the Government's war work; of complaining that the departments of the navy and of war were incompetent and dilatory; that partisan politics interfered with efficiency; that our soldiers were not equipped, and so and so, on to the end of the Book of Lamentations.

The attacks upon the supporters of the Administration, and particularly upon the Hearst papers and upon Mr. Hearst, took the form of imputations upon the loyalty of these papers and their owner.

Methods were employed which any decent journalist would scorn. Sentences were torn from the context and whole clauses omitted so as to give the apparent quotations a meaning exactly opposite to that of the editorial from which they were taken, and to this species of forgery were added the falsest interpretations and the most contemptible innuendo and misrepresentation.

And all the time the journal which vied with the New York Tribune in these mean and contemptible efforts to discredit the administration of President Wilson and to besmirch the supporters of the Administration was being edited and published by a German Government debtor, by a man with over a million dollars of German Government gold in his possession—by the Kaiser's own kept journalist.

And it is significant of the methods and the temper of the partisan and plutocratic interests the Mail so faithfully served that while these interests and their other organs hypocritically attacked public men and papers that these interests could not control for their own selfish financial purposes they never uttered a word of complaint about the German-owned EVENING MAIL.

The EVENING MAIL, like the New York Tribune, and like Colonel Roosevelt, could belittle our Government, belittle the President, belittle the War Department, belittle the Navy Department, belittle our war preparations and give all the aid and comfort to the enemy that such tactics would afford—and not a word of remonstrance or rebuke or complaint came from a single partisan, plutocratic, pretended patriot.

No wonder "Dr." Rumely was able to satisfy his German Government owners—as well as his American Republican and plutocratic supporters.

As long as he vied with the New York Tribune and Colonel Roosevelt in assailing the patriotic and efficient public servants in the Democratic Administration, and their faithful political and journalistic adherents, he could belittle the American Government and the American people's preparation for war to his heart's content.

During the whole course of this war the organs of the Republican and plutocratic interests have constantly attacked the President, his friends and assistants—have constantly attacked Secretary Daniels, have constantly attacked Secretary Baker, have constantly attacked Mr. Burleson, have constantly attacked Mr. Creel, have constantly belittled and assailed every single man who seems to merit and to obtain the confidence and friendship of the President.

The Hearst papers have realized perfectly well that the attacks upon the Administration by partisan plutocratic organs were in no way sincere and in no way based upon truth, justice or a loyal desire to serve the public interests.

The Administration has been attacked by these privilege-seeking interests and their press not because it was inefficient, but because it was radical; because it preferred to serve the best interests of the people rather than allow the people to be exploited by the profiteers; because these privileged classes were incensed at not being able to shirk in large part their proper share of the burden of taxation, as they had heretofore.

The Hearst papers have realized that the attacks upon Secretary Daniels were not due to any fault of this remarkably able Secretary of the Navy, not due to any alleged delay in the construction of ships, but were due to the fact that this honest and loyal public servant would not allow the profiteers to charge excessive profits for their materials or their products, or in any way to rob the people through the Navy Department.

The Hearst papers have realized perfectly well that the attacks upon Secretary Baker and the false charges of insufficient forces, insufficient equipment and inefficient conduct in the War Department were not due to the actual existence of such conditions, but to Secretary Baker's determination that the War Department should not be exploited in this war for the benefit of these profiteers, as it had been exploited in the Spanish War under the disgraceful Republican administration of Secretary Alger.

The Hearst papers have realized that the attacks upon Secretary Burleson were not due to any improper conduct of the Post-office Department, but merely to the fact that Secretary Burleson was in favor of public ownership of the telegraphs and the telephones; that the attacks upon Secretary McAdoo and the efforts to interfere with the success of the Liberty Loan, which resulted in the denunciation of the New York Tribune by Secretary McAdoo, were not due to any lack of ability and honesty in the conduct of the Treasury Department, but were due simply and solely to the fact that Mr. McAdoo was an earnest advocate of Government ownership of the railroads.

The fact is that it is impossible for an organ of partisan and plutocratic interests to be fair, manly, truthful and loyal, because we all know how utterly selfish and sordid this plutocratic element is and how little it cares for the welfare of the country when its own special privileges are in any way threatened.

No paper can be purely patriotic and unselfishly devoted to the best interests of the public without incurring the hatred and malignity and misrepresentation of the partisan and plutocratic interests which the Evening Mail has so faithfully represented.

And any paper can be as disloyal to the Government and as faithless to the people as it chooses to be, without incurring any opposition whatever from the plutocratic interests, if that paper will at the same time faithfully serve plutocracy.

The Evening Mail is a convincing proof of the fact that the only loyalty which plutocracy approves is loyalty to plutocracy, and that the only disloyalty which plutocracy disapproves and denounces is disloyalty to plutocracy.

Are You MASTER OF YOURSELF?

If Not, You Are the Slave of Yourself and Others, a Drifting Chip

Copyright, 1918, by the Star Company

Out of the night that covers me,
Black as the pit from pole to pole,
I thank whatever gods may be
For my unconquerable soul.

In the fell clutch of circumstance
I have not winced nor cried aloud.
Under the bludgeonings of chance
My head is bloody, but unbowed.

Beyond this place of wrath and tears
Looms but the horror of the shade,
And yet the menace of the years
Finds, and shall find me, unafraid.

It matters not how strait the gate,
How charged with punishments the scroll,
I am the master of my fate,
I am the captain of my soul.

W. E. HENLEY.

Very pretty lines indeed, but to how many of us do they apply? How many really are captains of the ship "Myself"?

Man is a ship on the ocean of life. The captain is WILL POWER.

The will controls life, we must control the will.

What we call will is made up of all the impulses, passions and appetites within the body, PLUS reason. Reason, the power to control ourselves, to control our inclinations, is the one thing that makes a MAN of a creature that otherwise would be simply an improved animal.

The biggest question in life is this: "Is it possible to control the will and through the will control oneself and life's conditions?"

IT IS POSSIBLE in spite of the teachings of superstition, of fatalism, and of mental weakness.

These words are plain:

"See, I have set before thee this day life and good, and death and evil: * * * therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live."—Deuteronomy xxx., 15, 19.

Man is born with all possibilities of good and of evil. "Out of the mouth of God cometh neither good nor bad." Man is born with the power TO CHOOSE, if he will exert his will.

Exercise of the will is, as the English philosopher and historian Buckle points out, the power to CONCENTRATE thought and keep

Sunday's sage first thinks of a peanut shell, then of a piece of straw, then of the trapeze over his head, then of the bars which he rattles.

He cannot keep his mind upon any one thing for a quarter of a second.

That is why he is a monkey. Don't be like him. Practice concentration of thought, keeping your mind at one thing, controlling your entire life and yourself by the power of the will, which should be the captain of your ship.

All the education that all the colleges of the world could give you would not equal in value the education that you can give YOURSELF by compelling your mind to work steadily, and your will to keep pointing in one direction.

Nobody can teach you that but yourself. Here is a quotation from Lecky. You might paste it up on your little mirror, thus making sure that you will see it quite frequently, when you study your thoughtful face or your new necktie in the morning:

"The discipline of thought; the establishment of an ascendency of the will over our courses of thinking; the power of casting away morbid trains of reflection and turning resolutely to other subjects or aspects of life; the power of concentrating the mind vigorously on a serious subject and pursuing continuous trains of thought—form perhaps the best fruits of judicious self-education.

"Its importance, indeed, is manifold. In the higher walks of intellect, this power of mental concentration is of supreme value. Newton is said to have ascribed mainly to an unusual amount of it his achievements in philosophy, and it is probable that the same might be said by most other great thinkers.

"It is in such exercises of will that we chiefly realize the truth of the lines of Tennyson:

"'Oh, well for him whose will is strong,
He suffers, but he will not suffer long.'"

We all realize the importance of telling the truth to each other. It is even more important to tell the truth to YOURSELF.

To WILL that you will do a thing and then fail is to lie to yourself. Weakness of will, like lying, is a matter of habit. Eventually it becomes fixed and hopeless.

Do you ask WHAT serious problems could be solved absolutely by will power? Here are a few:

The drink problem, the problem of extravagance, the problem of immorality, of laziness; the problem of an anxious, penniless old age, and there are a thousand others—all problems that will would solve.

GARRETT P. SERVISS' ARTICLE

A Soldier's Question Concerning the Trajectory of a Bullet and Why Gravity Makes a Projectile Drop Below the Plane of the Muzzle Answered

By Garrett P. Serviss

HERE is a question from a private at Camp Stuart which reveals one of the sources of great excellence of the American soldier—the fact that he wants to know not only how to use his weapons but also how and why they work as they do:

"Just what is meant by the 'trajectory' of a rifle bullet? In my opinion, it is the distance (vertical) that the projectile rises above the plane of the rifle base, independent of gravity—that is, before the initial velocity of the ball is reduced low enough to enable gravity to have any effect upon the path of the bullet. But our sergeant maintains that 'trajectory' means the distance the bullet falls from and below the plane in which it leaves the muzzle. He claims that the bullet drops below the level of the barrel immediately it leaves the gun. Am I not right? We leave here any hour, and I may not see a paper for months."

Quick Answer

What a picture that gives! Must it not have been in this manner that Caesar's unconquerable legionaries, as they gathered about the campfires in Gaul after hurling back Ariovistus and his German horde, conversed with the officers of their centuries? Many a glimpse afforded by Caesar himself shows us that in his army discipline went hand in hand with mental initiative among the soldiers. His victories, like Napoleon's, were based on a quality in his men that was higher than "goose-stepping."

But to return to the question. "Trajectory" means the whole curved path of the projectile from start to finish. It comes from the Latin word trajicio, meaning "to throw across." One of the main objects of the science of ballistics is to determine the trajectories of bullets and cannon shot, under varying circumstances of initial impulse, angle of elevation, atmospheric resistance, etc.

The course of the shot is traced mathematically from the muzzle of the gun to the point where its flight ends, and this course is its trajectory. Because of the resistance of the air the curve of the trajectory alters as the projectile advances, being steeper on its descent, which begins when it passes the vertex, or highest point, than it was on its ascent, before reaching that point; from which it results that the vertex is more than half way from the start to the finish or is ahead of the middle of the range, the range being the horizontal distance from the muzzle to the point where the projectile, after rising in its flight, descends again to the level of the gun. In a popular sense the range is the horizontal distance from the gun to the target.

The sergeant was right; the bullet drops below the plane of fire immediately on leaving the muzzle. This is an inevitable effect of the law of gravitation. Gravity acts instantaneously as far as we can determine, and is completely independent of the effects of any other force. No interposition of any object shields off gravitation. No motion is swift enough to get away from it. If you could fly away from the sun with a velocity equal to 186,324 miles per second the waves of sunlight could never overtake you, but you could not fly away fast enough to escape from the sun's gravitation.

The consequence is that no time at all elapses after a bullet leaves the muzzle of the gun before gravity, which is the term used for the earth's gravitation, begins to draw it downward. If the bullet is fired horizontally, then, in one second, gravity will cause it to fall about 16.1 feet below the plane on which it started. In one-tenth of a second gravity will cause a fall of 100th of 16.1 feet, and in a 1,000th of a second the fall will be 1,000,000th of 16.1 feet, and so on.

"Now, if you elevate the muzzle of the gun so that the projectile will rise on a slope from the horizontal, nevertheless gravity will begin to bring it below the plane on which it starts the instant it gets out of the bore, although, of course, the amount of drop during a small fraction of a second will be insensible, but the drop will occur, though not perceived, and will accumulate in the ratio of the square of the time until, at the end of a second, the fall will amount to 16.1 feet. This means that, no matter at what angle of elevation the bullet may have been fired (even if it were vertically upward), or with what speed it may have started, in one second after it leaves the muzzle it will be 16.1 feet vertically below the point where it would have been if there had been no gravity to interfere.

Strange Puzzle

These figures are based on the supposition that there is no air resistance. It is customary to neglect the air resistance in all such calculations when they are intended only to explain the manner in which gravity acts. In actual practice the calculations are based upon tables prepared from experimental results, which introduce the effect of air resistance under the conditions of given cases.

No single formula will apply to all cases alike, when the air resistance is taken into account, but that fact does not affect the general rule as stated above.

"When the Blue Star Turned to Gold"

By PAUL HARRIS DRAKE

"YES, the message came this morning;
Mother took it at the door.
"Private Johnson; killed in action"—
That was all it said—no more.

In the house, dry-eyed and peaceful,
Grief and pride the story told;
People passing paid a tribute
When the blue star turned to gold.

Long we watched his baby footsteps
Climb the stairs to Man's estate;
And at times so slow the progress,
Oft it seemed he couldn't wait.

But no more he'll be impatient
As he chafed for action bold;
For he's found release from duty
Since the blue star turned to gold.

Not a Hero on the record
Braver was or nobler died—
And the hearts of all who knew him
Bursting are with solemn pride.

No memorial through the ages—
Triumph arch or parchment old—
Can contain our feeling, God-like,
Since the blue star turned to gold.

Not for self, but all for Justice
And for Honor—true and bright;
'Twas for these he gave his heart's blood
When he perished in the fight.

And to us sweet resignation
Comes to halo him we hold,
Deep enshrined in blessed memory
Since the blue star turned to gold.
